

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

JOHN TENNISON,

Plaintiff,

v.

CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO; SAN FRANCISCO POLICE DEPARTMENT; PRENTICE
EARL SANDERS; NAPOLEON HENDRIX; and
GEORGE BUTTERWORTH,

Defendants.

ANTOINE GOFF,

Plaintiff,

v.

CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO; SAN FRANCISCO POLICE DEPARTMENT; PRENTICE
EARL SANDERS; NAPOLEON HENDRIX; and
GEORGE BUTTERWORTH,

Defendants.

No. C 04-0574 CW
Consolidated with
No. C 04-1643 CW

ORDER GRANTING IN PART DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT
AND PLAINTIFFS'
MOTION TO STRIKE AND DENYING
PLAINTIFFS'
MOTIONS FOR SUMMARY
ADJUDICATION

This is a civil rights action arising from the investigation, arrest and prosecution of Plaintiffs John Tennison and Antoine Goff by Defendants Prentice Earl Sanders, Napoleon Hendrix (together, the Inspectors) and George Butterworth. Plaintiffs have filed motions for partial summary adjudication of their Brady claims against the Inspectors; the Inspectors oppose and cross-move for

1 summary judgment on all of Plaintiffs' claims. Butterworth moves 2 separately for summary judgment. The Inspectors move under Civil 3 Local Rule 56-2(a) to submit a statement of disputed facts.
4 Tennison moves to strike certain portions of the Inspectors'
5 declarations. Goff joins in the motion to strike. The Inspectors
6 have not filed an opposition to the motion to strike. The matters
7 were heard on August 12, 2005. Having considered the papers filed
8 by the parties and oral argument on the motions, the Court GRANTS
9 in part Butterworth's motion for summary judgment, the Inspectors' 10 motion for summary judgment and Plaintiffs' motion to strike, and 11 DENIES Plaintiffs' motions for summary adjudication and the 12 Inspectors' request to submit a statement of disputed and 13 undisputed facts.

14 PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

15 On October 3, 1990, Plaintiffs, whose cases had been 16 consolidated for trial, were convicted by a jury of first degree 17 murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the shooting death of 18 Roderick Shannon. Wong Dec., Ex. V. In the Matter of the Claim for 19 Compensation by Antoine Maurice Goff and John J. Tennison, November 20 4, 2004 decision of the California Victim Compensation and 21 Government Claims Board (Matter of Goff and Tennison). Each 22 Plaintiff individually filed a motion for a new trial, both of 23 which were denied. Each Plaintiff individually filed a direct 24 appeal and then a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The State 25 courts denied the direct appeals and the habeas petitions. Each 26 Plaintiff individually filed a petition for writ of habeas corpus 27 in this Court. On August 26, 2003, this Court issued an Order

1 Granting Tennison's Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus based upon 2 the suppression of material exculpatory evidence. Purcell Dec., 3 Ex. 52, August 26, 2003 Habeas Order. Although the Court had not 4 ruled on Goff's petition, both Plaintiffs were released from 5 custody. The San Francisco district attorney decided not to retry
6 them. Purcell Dec., Exs. 53, 54; Goff Dec. ¶ 7; Exhibits B and C
7 submitted with Tennison's Complaint, October 27, 2003 State Court 8 Order declaring Tennison factually innocent of the murder of 9 Roderick Shannon. In 2004, Plaintiffs brought claims pursuant to 10 California Penal Code § 4900¹ against the State of California
11 seeking compensation for alleged wrongful incarceration. Wong
12 Dec., Ex. V, Matter of Goff and Tennison. The Administrative Law 13 Judge of the Victims' Compensation Board ruled that Plaintiffs had 14 failed to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that they 15 were entitled to compensation and their claims were denied. Id. at 16 10. Tennison has appealed this decision to the California superior 17 court. Balogh Dec. at ¶ 42. Tennison's attorney anticipates that 18 the losing party will appeal the superior court's decision to the 19 California court of appeal. Id.

20 FACTS

21 I. Pre-Trial Events -- Masina Fauolo and Pauline Maluina

22 On August 19, 1989, Shannon was shot and killed in San

23
24 ¹California Penal Code § 4900 et seq. provides the statutory 25 basis for the filing of a claim for injury sustained as a result of 26 an erroneous conviction and incarceration. The claimant must prove 27 by a preponderance of the evidence that the "crime was not 28 committed by him, the fact that he did not, by any act or omission on his part, either intentionally or negligently, contribute to the bringing about of his arrest or conviction for the crime with which he was charged. . ." Cal. Penal Code § 4903.

1 Francisco. San Francisco Homicide Inspectors Sanders and Hendrix
2 had been assigned to focus on gang-related murders and worked with 3 the Gang Task Force (GTF) with respect to any gang-related 4 homicide. The GTF was a group of officers in the San Francisco 5 police department charged with stopping gang activity generally.
6 Sanders and Hendrix headed the Shannon homicide investigation
7 assisted by GTF members Michael Lewis, Neville Gittens and Leroy 8 Lindo.

9 The evidence indicated that there had been a high-speed car 10 chase that had ended with Shannon taking the evasive action of 11 driving his car in reverse and then crashing his car backwards into 12 a park fence along Visitacion Avenue. One of the chasing vehicles 13 was a pick-up truck that had gone into reverse to chase Shannon's 14 car as it was driving in reverse. Residents in the neighborhood of 15 the shooting identified several cars involved in the chase, but 16 could not identify any of the people involved. The morning after 17 the crash, SFPD Inspector Frank Falzon interviewed the owner of the 18 car Shannon had been driving during the chase: his cousin, Patrick 19 Barnett. Balogh Reply Dec., Ex. 91, August 19, 1989 Barnett
20 Interview at 1. Falzon told Barnett that two cars and a large-21 sized pick-up truck were involved in the chase and asked him to 22 find a witness to the murder. Id. at 15-16.

23 On August 22, 1989, Masina Fauolo, an eleven-year old Samoan 24 girl who lived in the Sunnydale section of San Francisco, called 25 Hendrix and told him she had witnessed Shannon's killing. She 26 later described Shannon and herself as buddies, like brother and 27 sister. Over the next two months, Hendrix spoke to Masina every 28

1 day.

2 On October 4, 1989, Hendrix and Sanders submitted the 3 following memorandum to their supervisor, Lieutenant Gerald J.
4 McCarthy: "In order to encourage witnesses to come forward [in the 5 Shannon homicide case], we request a reward of $2,500 from the 6 Secret Witness Program. We feel this reward will generate 7 information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the 8 perpetrator(s) of the homicide." Purcell Dec., Ex. 22, October 4, 9 1989 Memo. The Secret Witness Program (SWP) was a community-based 10 reward fund that was administered by the San Francisco Chamber of 11 Commerce (COC) in the 1980s to encourage individuals to provide 12 confidentially information that would assist the police in solving 13 crimes in San Francisco. Tabak Dec. at ¶ 4. Individuals could 14 call the COC's hotline to provide such information. Id. Also, at 15 the request of the SFPD, the COC would post rewards for information 16 leading to the arrest, prosecution and conviction of criminal 17 suspects. Id. Any reward payment would be made directly by the 18 COC to the individual who provided the information, not to police 19 officers. Id. The SFPD did not fund the SWP. Id. A request that 20 a reward be posted by the SWP had to be approved by the requesting 21 officer's superior officers, then forwarded to the COC for its 22 consideration. Id.²

23 Hendrix and Sanders' request for a SWP reward was approved by 24 three people. An undated copy of a note addressed to McCarthy, 25 Hendrix and Sanders, which is xeroxed over the October 4, 1989

27 ²The SWP was discontinued in 1992. Tabak Dec. at ¶ 4.

1 memo, reads, "Jerry: Per Mary Petrie, this request has been taken 2 care of and the reward is in place." The memo was not turned over 3 to Plaintiffs' trial attorneys.

4 Sanders testified that he didn't personally give the SWP memo
5 to Butterworth, the assistant district attorney handling the case, 6 but that it was in the police case file³ and if Butterworth had 7 asked for the file, he would have seen it. Purcell Dec., Ex. 51, 8 Sanders Depo. at 129-31. Asked whether he had informed the 9 assistant district attorney about his request to the SWP, Hendrix
10 replied, "I don't know that I did." Purcell Dec., Ex. 1, Hendrix 11 Depo. at 25. Butterworth did not know of this memo and he did not 12 produce it to Plaintiffs' defense counsel. Purcell Dec., Ex. 42, 13 Butterworth Depo. at 100. Plaintiffs' defense counsel never 14 learned of this request. Purcell Dec., Ex. 41, Adachi Dec. at ¶ 7; 15 Melton Dec. at ¶ 5. Masina and Pauline Maluina, the other witness 16 against Tennison, testified that they did not receive any money for 17 testifying against Plaintiffs. Wong Dec., Ex. UU, Masina Dec. at ¶ 18 8-10; Wong Dec., Ex. M, Pauline Depo. at 137, 139.

19 Neither the SFPD nor the COC has been able to locate any

20 21 ³The Bureau of Investigations of the SFPD maintains an 22 investigative case file for all cases under investigation. Tabak 23 Dec., Ex. A at 25 (December 23, 1985 SFPD Memo on Investigative 24 Case File Management). Each case file must contain a Chronological 25 Report of Investigation which lists all pertinent facts needed to 26 document the investigation and to substantiate conclusions or 27 recommendations, including exculpatory evidence. Id. at 27. The 28 case file is maintained in the possession of the investigating officer, in the investigating officer's desk or in the section case file cabinets. Id. at 35 (March 7, 1990 SFPD Memo on Processing Of Cases Referred to Inspectors Bureau). At some point the investigation file or a copy of it, including all exculpatory information, is turned over to the district attorney's office.
Balogh Reply Dec., Ex. 81, Tabak Depo. at 99-100.

1 witnesses or records indicating that a reward was ever offered or 2 paid to anyone in connection with the Shannon murder investigation.
3 Tabak Dec. at ¶ 5. No record indicates that any SWP reward funds
4 were ever paid to Hendrix or Sanders in any case. Id.

5 On October 11, 1999, Sanders received a check in the amount of 6 $1,250 from the SFPD's Contingent Fund B for the purpose of 7 "witness expenses." Purcell Dec., Ex. 23, October and December, 8 1989 Ledger Pages for Contingent Fund B. On December 1, 1989, 9 Hendrix received a check in the amount of $160 from Contingent Fund
10 B for the purpose of a "witness agreement." Id. Contingent Fund B 11 is a discretionary fund the Chief of Police uses in the 12 investigation and detection of crime. Goldberg Dec. at ¶ 3. The 13 Chief of Police or his designee must approve all reimbursements and 14 advances to police officers paid from this fund. Id. All requests 15 for payments from Contingent Fund B must be documented and the 16 documentation must be routed through the chain of command to the 17 Chief of Police for approval. Id. This procedure was in effect in 18 1989 and has not changed since then. Id. Defendants' witness 19 declares that Contingent Fund B has never been used for rewards, 20 and that the payments noted in the ledger were for witness expenses 21 unrelated to the October 4, 1989 memo requesting a reward from the 22 SWP. Goldberg Dec. at ¶ 5.

23 In a 2005 declaration, Masina states that she moved to Samoa
24 shortly after Shannon was killed and that, as far as she knows, her 25 transportation expenses to fly from Samoa to San Francisco for the 26 preliminary hearings and trial were paid by the SFPD. Wong Dec., 27 Ex. UU, Masina Dec. at ¶ 14.

1 The Fiscal Division has worked diligently to try to locate 2 all supporting documentation for the October payment to Sanders and 3 the December payment to Hendrix, but it has only been able to 4 locate bank statements; the request memos, cancelled checks and any 5 related receipts could not be found. Id. The documents were 6 likely destroyed years ago as part of the SFPD's standard 7 documentation retention and destruction policy. Id.

8 The information about the Contingent Fund B disbursements was 9 not given to Plaintiffs' trial attorneys.

10 In an October 31, 1989 recorded interview with Hendrix and 11 Sanders, Masina told them the following information. Purcell Dec., 12 Ex. 26. After midnight on August 19, 1989, Masina and her friend 13 Pauline Maluina were parked in the Lovers' Lane parking lot at the 14 top of Visitacion Avenue in a stolen car eleven-year old Masina was 15 driving. Masina said she saw three cars and a truck enter the 16 parking lot. The drivers and the passengers in the vehicles were 17 young, African American men. She heard one boy say to another, 18 "Buck, come here." After the cars had been parked for about ten 19 minutes, Shannon's car went by on Visitacion. Then the three cars 20 and the truck left the parking lot and began to chase Shannon in 21 the car he was driving. Masina drove out of the parking lot and 22 followed the cars down the hill without losing sight of Shannon's 23 car. She said she parked the stolen car on the street near where 24 Shannon had crashed his car and ran to a Super Fair parking lot.
25 She got separated from her friend Pauline at this point. At the 26 Super Fair parking lot, she saw Shannon being beaten by a gang of 27 boys. Then one boy went to the trunk of his car and got a shotgun.

1 Masina heard four or five shots, saw the boy shoot at Shannon, but 2 didn't know whether any of the shots hit Shannon or were shot in 3 the air. After Shannon was shot, all the boys got back in their 4 cars and left. Masina then went to Shannon who said, "Get 5 Patrick." Then Masina left the scene.

6 At the interview, Sanders showed Masina eight photographs.
7 From them she picked two, one of Tennison and one of Goff. Masina 8 said that Tennison was one of the boys who were beating Shannon and 9 Goff was the person who shot Shannon.

10 On November 28, 1989, Hendrix located Masina's friend, 11 fourteen-year old Pauline Maluina, at Visitacion Valley High School 12 and interviewed her in the presence of her father and the 13 principal. Purcell Dec., Ex. 29, November 28, 1989 Police 14 Interview with Pauline Maluina. At the interview, Pauline told 15 Hendrix that she and Masina were walking around and saw some people 16 beating up somebody. Then Shannon "came out looking all 17 frightened. All of a sudden there's a car right next to them.
18 Someone got the gun and shot him right there and me and Masina we 19 just ran and we hopped on a bus. We went down 24th and Mission." 20 Id. at 2. She and Masina were walking and talking slowly. Id. at 21 4. Right after one shot was fired, she and Masina ran because they 22 thought the shooter was going to point the gun at them and shoot 23 them. Id. at 5.

24 At the interview, Hendrix showed Pauline eight San Francisco 25 police ID-type photos. Pauline identified two of the people in the 26 photos as being at the scene. One of the people she picked was 27 Tennison. She said he was not the person who was in charge of the 28

1 shotgun. Id. at 13. The other person Pauline identified was an 2 individual named Wayland Gibson, who was also known as "Buck." Id.
3 at 12.

4 Hendrix and Sanders brought the case to the San Francisco 5 District Attorney's Office, which decided to prosecute Plaintiffs.
6 On November 28, 1989, a warrant was issued for the arrest of Goff; 7 on December 1, 1989, a warrant was issued for the arrest of 8 Tennison.

9 The case against Plaintiffs was originally prosecuted by 10 Assistant District Attorney Al Giannini. In December, 1989, 11 Giannini filed a California Welfare and Institutions Code § 707
12 petition to have Tennison referred to adult court for prosecution 13 in the Shannon homicide. Kaiser Dec., Ex. B, May 24, 1990 14 Butterworth Declaration. On February 21, 1990, the case was 15 transferred to Assistant District Attorney Butterworth. The 16 section 707 hearing took place on March 27, 1990 and April 2, 1990;
17 Hendrix and Pauline testified. Tennison's attorney, San Francisco 18 Assistant Public Defender Jeff Adachi cross-examined them. The 19 petition was granted. Tennison was arrested on April 5, 1990.
20 Tennison's preliminary hearing was set for April 23, 1990. Goff 21 was arraigned on April 9, 1990 and his preliminary hearing was set 22 for May 1, 1990.

23 On April 22, 1990, the day before Tennison's preliminary 24 hearing, Pauline arrived from Hawaii, where she was then living, to 25 meet with Butterworth before she testified at the hearing. Kaiser 26 Dec., Ex. B, May 24, Butterworth Dec. at 1. Pauline, her mother, 27 Butterworth and Hendrix were at the meeting. Kaiser Dec., Ex. A, 28

1 Butterworth Depo. at 162. Butterworth had asked Pauline to come to 2 the meeting to prepare her for her testimony at the preliminary 3 hearing. Id. Butterworth had Pauline read the testimony she gave 4 at Tennison's section 707 hearing and told her there were 5 discrepancies between what she had testified to and what Masina had 6 said in her tape-recorded interview with the police. Purcell Dec., 7 Ex. 30, April 23, 1990 Police Interview of Pauline Maluina at 2.
8 Pauline then told Butterworth that she had not been at the scene of 9 Shannon's homicide. Id. She said that she had lied "because she 10 didn't want to get into any more trouble" and she owed Masina 11 something. Id. at 2, 4. Pauline said that she had been able to 12 pick out Tennison's photo from the photos Hendrix had shown her at 13 the November, 1989 interview "because Masina told me to pick the 14 one that looked the biggest, and the largest one out of all the 15 pictures." Id. at 3. Pauline also said that she learned all the 16 details of Shannon's shooting from Masina before she spoke to 17 Hendrix in November. Id. at 4. After he heard Pauline's 18 recantation, Butterworth sent Pauline and her mother back to their 19 hotel. Wong Dec., Ex. O, Butterworth Depo. at 178. Then 20 Butterworth spoke with Hendrix and they decided to bring Pauline 21 back the next day to see if she would still say that she wasn't at 22 the murder scene. Id.

23 The next day, April 23, 1990, Pauline returned with her 24 mother. Id. Butterworth told Pauline that, based upon what she 25 had said the previous day, he wanted to do a follow-up interview 26 which was going to be tape-recorded. Id. at 190. Butterworth told 27 Pauline, "Do you understand that based upon what you told Inspector 28

1 Hendrix and myself yesterday, that the case against Mr. Tennison 2 has been compromised and as a result, uh, we're not going to be 3 able to proceed with the preliminary hearing or with the 4 prosecution at this point? Do you understand that?" Purcell Dec., 5 Ex. 30, April 23, 1990 Police Interview of Pauline Maluina at 6.
6 Pauline responded that she did understand. Id. Butterworth asked, 7 "And is the reason you are telling us the information you are 8 telling us today because that's the truth or is it just because you 9 are afraid to testify against Mr. Tennison?" Id. Pauline 10 responded, "It's the truth." Id.

11 After this interview, Butterworth dismissed the case against 12 Tennison and then had a conference with other members of the 13 homicide unit of the district attorney's office, including the head 14 of the unit, to decide how to proceed. Wong Dec., Ex. O, 15 Butterworth Depo. at 192. During that meeting, it was determined 16 that Pauline would be given a polygraph test. Id. at 194. The 17 goal of the polygraph was to see if, in the face of the polygraph 18 examination, Pauline would persist in her claim that she had not 19 been at the scene of Shannon's murder. Id. at 194. Another 20 decision that was made was to talk to Masina. Id. at 197.

21 On April 23, 1990, Hendrix called Masina who was then living 22 in Samoa. Balogh Reply Dec. at ¶ 7, Ex. 59, photocopies of two 23 audiotapes labeled "Masina Fauolo 4/23/90" and "M. Fauolo 4/23/90."
24 These are two copies of an original audiotape of Hendrix and 25 Masina's conversation. These copies were not produced to 26 Plaintiffs' trial counsel nor were they produced in response to 27 subpoenas issued in Tennison's federal habeas case. Balogh Dec. at 28

¶ 7. They were produced from Butterworth's files in December, 2004, in response to Tennison's subpoena in this case. Id. The original audiotape of Hendrix' conversation with Masina has never been produced. Id.⁴

Plaintiffs employed forensic audio expert Richard Sanders to enhance the sound quality of the audiotapes because they are difficult to hear. Richard Sanders Dec. at 1. Only Hendrix' voice can be heard on the audiotapes. Id. at 5. Even with the enhancement, only about one-third of Hendrix' conversation contains recognizable words. Id. Richard Sanders made a transcript of the audible portion of the tape. Id. He states that the only knowledge he had when making the transcript was the names of the people who might be involved in the discussion. Id. About ten minutes into the audiotape, the words, "Can you ever see this reward?" can be heard. Id., Ex. 2, Transcript of Audiotape at 3, line 10:58.

The Inspectors employed audio expert Durand R. Begault to review Richard Sanders' declaration and its attached exhibits. Begault Dec. at ¶ 5. Begault states that even with enhancement of the tape, except for an occasional word or phrase such as "OK" or "JJ," it is mostly impossible to determine reliably what exact words Hendrix is saying. Id. at ¶ 14. Begault states that the ⁴Tennison indicates that, because this evidence was only produced in response to the subpoena in this case, allegations that the Inspectors suppressed the tape of Hendrix' April 23, 1990 conversation with Masina is not included in his complaint. Tennison argues that he informed the Inspectors of this Brady claim in his responses to their interrogatories and, because the Inspectors have not moved for summary judgment on this claim, it remains for trial.

1 word "reward" is not spoken anywhere on the tape and thus Richard 2 Sanders' transcript of the tape is inaccurate. Id. at 18.
3 Begault's best estimate of the phrase Richard Sanders transcribes 4 as, "Can you ever see this reward" is "Have you ever seen this 5 before?" Begault's colleague heard, "Have you ever seen this one?"

6 On April 24, 1990, Pauline returned to the police station
7 without her mother and she was given a polygraph test. Kaiser
8 Dec., Ex. 1, Butterworth Depo. at 202. Butterworth had a few brief 9 words with Pauline before she was polygraphed, but they did not say 10 anything of substance. Id. Butterworth did not speak to Pauline 11 after the polygraph. Id. SFPD Inspector Henry Hunter administered 12 the polygraph. Purcell Dec., Ex. 33, April 27, 1990 Memorandum 13 from Henry Hunter to Hendrix and Sanders. Pauline responded to 14 Hunter's questions by saying that she had not witnessed the Shannon 15 murder and that Masina had told her to lie about being there. Id.
16 Hunter determined that the polygraph results were inconclusive.
17 Id. Hunter told Pauline that if she had changed her original story 18 because of fear of retaliation, she should not do so because the 19 police would give her protection. Id. Hendrix placed Hunter's 20 memo summarizing the results of Pauline's polygraph in the police 21 case file which was available to Butterworth. Hendrix Dec. ¶ 22.
22 Butterworth testified that he never saw the memo. Wong Dec., Ex.
23 O, Butterworth Depo. at 207. Butterworth testified that he told 24 Jeff Adachi, Tennison's defense counsel, about the polygraph. Id.
25 Butterworth could not remember if he told Barry Melton, Goff's 26 defense counsel, about the polygraph. Id. at 208. Adachi declares 27 that he was not made aware that Pauline was subjected to a 28

1 polygraph examination. Adachi Dec. at ¶ 12.

2 After the polygraph, Hendrix put Pauline in a private room and 3 arranged for her to talk by phone to Masina, who was in Samoa.
4 Hendrix Dec. at ¶ 23. Hendrix left Pauline in the room alone to 5 talk to Masina and did not monitor or record the call. During the 6 call, Masina got mad at Pauline and told her how stupid she was.
7 Purcell Dec., Ex. 31, Pauline's Trial Testimony at 194. After 8 Pauline talked to Masina, Pauline retracted her recantation.
9 Hendrix Dec. at ¶ 23. On April 24, 1990, Hendrix and Sanders 10 interviewed Pauline on tape and documented the retraction of her 11 recantation. Id.; Purcell Dec., Ex. 34, April 24, 1990 Police 12 Interview with Pauline Maluina. Hendrix and Sanders gave this tape 13 to Butterworth. Hendrix Dec. at ¶ 23.

14 In a declaration dated June, 2003, Pauline states that, during 15 the phone call, Masina pressured her to return to her earlier, 16 untrue statements and told Pauline additional details about the 17 false testimony she wanted Pauline to give. June, 2003 Maluina Dec.
18 at ¶ 14. At her deposition, Pauline stated that, although Masina 19 had never hurt or threatened her, Pauline had seen the damage
20 Masina had done to other people and she didn't want that happening 21 to her. Wong Dec., Ex. M, Maluina Depo. at 249-50. Pauline stated 22 that Masina told her to tell the truth, but Pauline interpreted 23 Masina as saying "tell my truth." Id. at 282-83.

24 Pauline testified that, when Butterworth first heard that she 25 was recanting her prior testimony, he got upset and yelled, "How 26 could you say that you weren't there? You told us that you were 27 there." Id. at 79. Later, she clarified that Butterworth got 1 upset and raised his voice like a parent talking to his child. Id.

2 at 77, 88-89. She also said that Butterworth looked frustrated and 3 then he called in Hendrix. Id. at 78. Pauline said that 4 Butterworth and Hendrix pushed her toward going back to her 5 original testimony by not listening to her when she told them she 6 was not at the murder scene. Id. at 96. She felt that Butterworth
7 and Hendrix did not protect her in that they did not listen to her.
8 Id. at 371-72. Pauline testified that she had asked to take a 9 polygraph test. Id. at 94.

10 Tennison's preliminary hearing was held on June 18, 1990.
11 Achiron Reply Dec., Ex. D. Only Masina testified, but the court 12 heard testimony that Pauline had recanted and that Masina had 13 spoken to her after she recanted. Id. at 105. Tennison 14 Preliminary Hearing at 104-05. At Goff's preliminary hearing, 15 Butterworth called only Masina, but Goff called Pauline as a 16 defense witness. Achiron Reply Dec., Ex. C, Goff Preliminary 17 Hearing at 101-11. Pauline was examined on the discrepancies 18 between her testimony and Masina's, her recantation and her 19 telephone call to Masina regarding her recantation. Id. The 20 court, in both cases, found probable cause. Id. at 118-19; Achiron 21 Reply Dec., Ex. D, Tennison's Preliminary Hearing at 118-19.

22 Masina and Pauline testified at Plaintiffs' consolidated 23 trial. On October 3, 1990, a jury found Plaintiffs guilty of 24 murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

25 II. Pre-Trial Events -- Chante Smith

26 On January 3, 1990, Chante Smith contacted Sanders. Purcell
27 Dec., Ex. 45, Sanders' notes of January 3, 1990 Smith conversation;

1 Sanders Dec. ¶ 9; Wong Dec. Ex. F, Matter of Goff and Tennison, 2 Transcript of Administrative Hearing (Transcript of § 4900 Hearing)
3 at 87. Smith said she had information that she had heard on the 4 street and she provided Sanders with a list of names of people she 5 had heard were at the scene of the Shannon murder, including a 6 person named Luther Blue. Sanders Dec. ¶ 9; Smith Dec. ¶ 8, Wong
7 Dec., Ex. F, Transcript of § 4900 Hearing at 87. Smith also said
8 that Sanders had arrested the wrong people and that Lavinsta
9 Ricard⁵ had shot Shannon. Smith Dec. ¶ 8. Smith also told Sanders 10 that the car chase started at the Seven-Eleven store, which is 11 located east of the Super Fair Market where Shannon was shot, 12 whereas Lovers' Lane, where Masina and Pauline had said the car 13 chase started, is located west of the Super Fair Market. Smith 14 Dec. ¶ 8; see Purcell Dec., Ex. 20, Map. Smith also described 15 several of the cars involved in the car chase. Smith Dec. ¶ 8.
16 Years later, on July 24, 1992, Smith told Butterworth and Sanders
17 that she had actually witnessed Shannon's murder. Purcell Dec., 18 Ex. 47, Chante Smith's July 24, 1992 Police Interview at 2-32. She 19 said she had not told Sanders that she was a witness to the murder 20 because she was afraid she would go to jail and that Ricard or Blue 21 would harm her. Wong Dec., Ex. F, Transcript of 22 § 4900 Hearing at 94-95; Purcell Dec., Ex. 47, Chante Smith's July 23 24, 1992 Police Interview at 40, 62. Blue and Ricard were friends 24 and Smith heard that Blue had paid someone $10,000 to kill her so 25 that she could not reveal that Ricard shot Shannon. Id. at 40.

26 27 ⁵Smith used Ricard's street name, Lavinsta. Apparently, his 28 true name is Lovinsky.

1 Because of these threats, Smith left the home she shared with her 2 mother in San Francisco and moved to Richmond and then to Daly
3 City. Id. at 65. Only Smith's mother knew how to get in touch
4 with her. Id.

5 Sanders made a hand-written note of the Smith interview and 6 put it in the police case file, which was made available to 7 Butterworth. Sanders Dec. at ¶ 9; Wong Dec., Ex. I, Sanders' Note
8 dated 1/3/90. The handwritten note has the word "Chante" written 9 at the top left and the top center has the words "Re: 'Coolie' 187 10 PC,"⁶ and under this is a telephone number. Id. Under this 11 heading appear the words, "Luther Blue, 'Coug Nut' Lakeview 12 'Rapper', 'Louie Lou,' Record Title: 'Scandelous [sic]', Laventa or 13 Vista, Troy Barnes drives a Black Skylark, Mad Hatter, Mark 14 Anthony, Shardedee, 'The Ill Mannered Posse,' and 'We're going over 15 to Sunnydale and start some shit.'" Id.

16 After Smith's initial contact with Sanders, Sanders came to 17 Smith's house, they sat in the parking lot and Smith told Sanders 18 about her knowledge of the people and the cars involved in 19 Shannon's murder. Purcell Dec., Ex. 47, Smith's July 24, 1992
20 Police Interview at 61. Sanders sent three officers from the GTF 21 to Smith's house to show her pictures of a truck similar to the one 22 she had described to Sanders. Id. She was asked to identify the 23 truck because she had told Sanders that, after Shannon had been 24 shot, she had seen people involved in the shooting at the Sundial, 25

26 ⁶Coolie was Shannon's street name. 187 PC refers to 27 California Penal Code § 187 which provides the definition of 28 murder.

1 a park in Hunter's Point, and she had seen a truck there. Id. at 2 62-63.

3 On February 8, 1990, after Smith had spoken to Sanders, 4 Hendrix and Lewis interviewed Lovinsky Ricard. Purcell Dec., Ex.
5 37, Transcript of February 8, 1990 Police Interview with Lovinsky
6 Ricard. Hendrix named the people mentioned by Smith and asked 7 Ricard if he knew any of them. Ricard denied knowing any of them.
8 Id. at 7-12. Hendrix asked Ricard if he was present when Shannon 9 was shot. Id. at 14. Ricard replied, "No." Id. Hendrix told 10 Ricard that someone had told the police that Ricard had shot 11 Shannon to avenge the death of Cheap Charlie and asked Ricard if he 12 shot Shannon. Id. at 16-17. Ricard again denied shooting Shannon.
13 Id. at 17. Toward the end of the interview Hendrix told Ricard, 14 "I'm saying your name came up in this investigation, with Cooley.
15 Someone says you were there at the scene. Now, I don't think this 16 person would have a grudge with you. I don't think this person 17 would do it maliciously or try to damage you in any way because it 18 doesn't appear to be that type of individual. However, it's 19 something that has to be explained, one way or another. And we'd 20 be less than diligent, sworn to do our duty if we didn't pursue, 21 check it out." Id. at 22-23.

22 On February 9, 1990, Sanders and Gittens interviewed Luther 23 Blue. Wong Dec., Ex. S, Transcript of February 9, 1990 police
24 interview with Luther Blue. Sanders informed Blue that his name 25 had come up in connection with the Shannon homicide. Id. at 4.
26 Blue said that he had never heard anything about the Shannon 27 incident. Id. at 5. Later in the interview, Blue stated that he 28

1 had heard that Shannon had been shot, but that he was not there.

2 Id. at 10. Sanders stated,

3 Now we're gonna get to the bottom of Roderick Shannon 4 being shot. Now, we know and its [sic] obvious to you,
5 or it should be, that somebody has talked to us . . . I 6 believe you were there, 'cause I believe the person who 7 told me. . . . But what I'm saying son the people we 8 talked to told us exactly what happened. They told us 9 about the truck. We know who the truck belongs to. We 10 know about the truck. We know about the chase, we know 11 that he was -- the person just out drove him, Roderick, 12 he didn't know much about drivin' cars. After he wrecked 13 the car they chased him and when they made that turn, he 14 thought behind that market . . . there used to be a lower 15 fence . . . he thought if he could get over the fence he 16 could get in the backyard and get away. Only when he got 17 up there they caught him. There were people standing 18 around. So, can you tell me . . . why these individuals 19 would say 'yeah, Luther was there,' they didn't say you 20 were doing nothing . . .

21 Id. at 21, 23-24.

22 Blue replied, "I don't know why they'd say I was there." Id.
23 at 24. Sanders stated, "I believe the people who talked to me. I 24 believe you were there. You were there . . . and I can understand 25 you being afraid, that's no . . . Son, that is no crime to be 26 afraid. . . ." Id. at 25. Later, Sanders stated,

27 Now tell me, if I were to tell you that on the night of 28 the incident you were at the 7-11 on Third Street . . .
You became posse'd up with a group of other young men and gave chase to an automobile driven by -- actually you didn't know who it was driven by, they thought it was Patrick's car. Roderick Shannon was Patrick's cousin.
Gave chase to the car. The car, lost it, picked it up again, chased it until it ran the fence and then the truck backed down the street -- that was some pretty skillful driving. And when the witnesses told us about that -- that took some pretty skillful driving. All the time, the people that were in the truck, and in the other vehicles, they all knew each other. Everybody knew everybody else -- And you were there. You were there Luther. Tell you what I'm going to do, son . . . I'm going to give you time to think about it. . . . Meanwhile we are going to continue our investigation.

1 Id. at 27.

2 Butterworth testified that Sanders' January 3, 1990 note was 3 in his file, but that he would not have known from the names listed 4 on the note what role these individuals played or why they were 5 identified. Wong Dec. Ex. O, Butterworth Dep. at 113, 116.
6 Butterworth said that this list of names, without any other 7 information, would be valueless because, in a homicide
8 investigation, everything is contextual. Id. at 117. Butterworth 9 learned the significance of the document in the review of the 10 petition for writ of habeas corpus. Id. Butterworth has no 11 personal knowledge whether Sanders' note was produced to Adachi, 12 but he testified that it was in the district attorney's file, and 13 therefore it would have been turned over to Adachi in the initial 14 discovery package. Id. at 113.

15 Adachi declares that he never received any information or 16 documentation regarding the information Smith provided to Sanders.
17 Adachi Dec. at ¶ 4. Adachi states that he never received a copy of 18 Sanders' handwritten note. Id. He states that the first time he 19 received the note was in June, 2002, when Tennison's present 20 attorney gave him a copy of it. Id. at ¶ 5. Adachi states that 21 had he known that Smith had stated that the car chase started at 22 the Seven-Eleven, which was inconsistent with Masina and Pauline's 23 story, he would have had a legitimate alternative theory for the 24 case that would have proven the girls were lying, he could have 25 identified a woman named "Chante" who had information about a list 26 of potential witnesses or suspects and he would have been able to

1 follow up on the dead-end police interviews of Lovinsky Ricard on 2 February 8, 1990, and of Luther Blue on February 14, 1990. Id.

3 Melton declares that he never received any information, oral 4 or written, about the police interview with Smith in which she 5 named Ricard. Melton Dec. at ¶ 4.

6 In Smith's 1992 police interview, Butterworth and Sanders
7 questioned her about her interaction with Plaintiffs. Smith stated 8 that she had gone out with Goff about twice, that they were friends
9 but that they were not dating. Purcell Dec., Ex. 47, 1992 Smith 10 Interview at 39, 60. Smith only knew Goff as Antoine or Sodapop, 11 his street name; she did not know his last name. Id. at 42.
12 Before Plaintiffs' trial, Smith was contacted by some of Tennison's 13 and Goff's friends who told her that Tennison and Goff, 14 independently, wanted her to testify or talk to their attorneys.
15 Id. at 41, 66-67. Smith told Plaintiffs' friends that she had been 16 threatened and couldn't take the risk. Id. at 41. Smith stated 17 that she had worked as an operator for Pacific Bell in Burlingame 18 and, after Plaintiffs' trial, when they were incarcerated in the 19 county jail, she handled several collect calls placed separately by 20 Tennison and Goff. Id. at 66. At that time, Smith did not know 21 Tennison's name. Id. at 42. When Tennison realized that the 22 operator was Smith, he asked her to talk to himself or his 23 attorney, but Smith said she would not come forward because she was 24 afraid of getting into trouble. Id. at 42, 44. Neither Tennison 25 nor Goff had Smith's home number, so they did not know how to find 26 her. Id. at 45.

27 At Tennison's motion for new trial, Bruce Tennison testified 28

1 that Adachi had asked him to find a woman by the name of Chauntey
2 White to ask her if she knew anything about the Shannon homicide.
3 Wong Dec., Ex. E, Transcript of New Trial Motion at 228. Bruce 4 Tennison could not find her because he did not have a number for 5 her. Id.

6 In her 1992 interview, Smith stated that if Plaintiffs' 7 attorneys had served her with a subpoena, she would have come in 8 and talked to them. Purcell Dec., Ex. 47, 1992 Smith Interview at 9 45. She reiterated this statements in her testimony at the § 4900
10 hearing. Wong Dec., Ex. F., Transcript of § 4900 Hearing at 163, 11 165, 167.

12 At the § 4900 hearing, Goff testified that, before Shannon's
13 murder, Goff had gone out with Smith twice. Wong Dec., Ex. F, 14 Transcript of § 4900 Hearing at 640. Goff testified that a month 15 or two after the murder, he was among a crowd of people who were 16 listening to a person named Lovinsky Ricard brag about shooting 17 Shannon. Id. at 580. Goff heard Ricard mention Smith's name in 18 connection with Shannon's murder, and the next time Goff saw Smith, 19 he asked her if she knew anything about the murder. Id. at 582-83, 20 641. Smith told Goff that she didn't have anything to do with the 21 murder, and Goff never said anything else about it to her. Id. at 22 582. Goff believed he told Melton about Smith. Id. at 595, 677.
23 Goff did not tell Tennison any of the information he knew about 24 Ricard and Smith. Id. at 639. After he was convicted, but prior 25 to being sentenced, Goff had two or three telephone conversations 26 with Smith and he asked her to talk to his lawyer because his 27 friend had told him that she may have been at the murder scene.

1 Id. at 673-74.

2 III. Post-Trial Events -- Lovinsky Ricard

3 On November 7, 1990, shortly after Plaintiffs had been 4 convicted, Lovinsky Ricard was arrested, on a bench warrant, by 5 SFPD officers Lewis and Gittens, two members of the GTF who were 6 working on the Shannon murder with Hendrix and Sanders. Purcell
7 Dec., Ex. 19, Lewis Depo. at 18, 31; Purcell Dec., Ex. 38, Lovinsky
8 Ricard's November 7, 1990 Police Interview at 2. Ricard
9 voluntarily told them that he had shot Shannon. Id. at 34. Lewis
10 and Gittens read Ricard his Miranda warnings and questioned him 11 about the Shannon homicide. Id. at 14. The interview was audio-12 taped. Ricard stated that, on the night of the murder, he had been 13 hanging out, drinking with others and riding with friends in a 14 convertible. Id. at 15.⁷ Ricard did not want to name the others 15 who were present, stating that he did not want them to be arrested 16 or involved in the case. Id. at 17-18. Ricard said that he had 17 started thinking about his friend Cheap Charlie, who had just been 18 killed, and he was talking about what he would do about it. Id. at 19 3. He had a shotgun with him. Id. He went with his friends in 20 the convertible to a Seven-Eleven store and there he decided to 21 join other people in the back of a pick-up truck. Id. at 6. He 22 saw a black car and he recognized the driver as one of the group 23 who he thought had killed Cheap Charlie. Id. A car chase began 24 and, from the back of the truck, Ricard shot at the black car. Id.

25
26 ⁷At her July 24, 1992 police interview, Smith stated that, on 27 the night of the Shannon murder, she had been driving a convertible 28 with Ricard and two other passengers. Purcell Dec., Ex. 47, Smith Police Interview at 3-4, 68.

1 The driver threw the car in reverse and went backward. Id. Then 2 the driver of the truck threw the truck in reverse and drove 3 backward chasing the car. Id. During the chase, Ricard was 4 shooting at the car. Id. at 6-7. The driver ran the car up on the 5 curb and into the fence, and jumped out of the car and started 6 running. Id. at 7. Some of the people who had been chasing the 7 black car caught the driver and were beating him in a corner. Id.
8 Ricard jumped out of the back of the truck with the gun and, when 9 he pointed the gun at Shannon, everybody cleared back and Ricard 10 shot him. Id. Then everybody scattered. Id. Ricard jumped back 11 in the truck and the truck and all the cars drove away. Id. at 7-12 8. The gun he used had been stolen, so there was no possibility 13 that the police would find it. Id. at 8. Ricard stated that he 14 was confessing because he had been feeling bad that two of his 15 friends were going down for something he did and now he was trying 16 to do the right thing. Id. at 13-14, 15. Ricard stated that he 17 knew Tennison and Goff well and they were not at the scene of the 18 murder. Id. at 15. Ricard said the convertible he was originally 19 riding in that evening, before he got into the pick-up truck, 20 pulled up to the scene after the shooting was over. Id. at 18.
21 Several times Lewis asked Ricard for the names of people who could 22 verify any part of his story; Ricard refused to name other people 23 because he didn't want to bring them into it. Id. at 25-28.

24 At his 2001 deposition, Lewis testified that Ricard's 25 description of the car chase was consistent with everything else he 26 had heard about it, that during the course of the chase, the person 27 being chased had put his car in reverse and gone backwards for some 28

1 distance. Purcell Dec., Ex. 19, December 3, 2001 Lewis Depo. at 2 65. After Ricard confessed, Lewis believed that Ricard murdered 3 Shannon. Id. at 82. Lewis testified that he advised Hendrix and 4 Sanders that Ricard had confessed on tape and "they said they would 5 consider the information that I gave them through the interview and 6 it would be determined from there, from others other than myself, 7 how they would go further." Id. at 86. Lewis stated that he gave 8 the Inspectors a copy or the original of the audiotape, but not a 9 written transcript, so they would have to play and listen to the 10 tape to determine what was on it. Id. Lewis was sure he gave them 11 some kind of narrative regarding the content of the tape. Id. at 12 88.

13 At his 2005 deposition, Lewis testified that on November 7, 14 1990, after he interviewed Ricard, he made a copy of the audiotape 15 of the interview. Wong Dec., Ex. R, May 10, 2005 Lewis Depo. at 16 66. Lewis was asked, "Once you concluded the Ricard interview and 17 you had the audiotape of it, what did you do with that tape?" He 18 answered:

19 My recall is that I made a copy of it and either put it 20 in room 400, which is like the operation center for the 21 police department, so when the different bureau chiefs or 22 lieutenants come in they can forward that information to 23 whomever in their unit needed it. Or I would write a 24 note -- and I recall having done this on occasion -- I 25 don't remember that I did it on this occasion -- and 26 either put it under the door so that they could get it 27 first thing in the morning. Because we work 28 predominantly nights.

Id.

Then the following exchange took place:

Q: When you say "put it under the door," do you mean the door to Inspectors Hendrix' and Sanders' office?

1 A: The door to the homicide detail, yes.

2 Q: And that was where Inspector Hendrix and Sanders had 3 their desks, in the homicide detail?

4 A: Yes.

5 Q: And is your recollection that you did this immediately 6 after taking the confession?

7 A: That evening before I left the building, yes.

8 . . .

9 Q: Do you recall talking to Inspector Hendrix or 10 Inspector Sanders about what Ricard had said during the 11 November, 1990 interview?

12 A: The next day I believe I talked to them.

13 Q: What did you say?

14 A: "Did you hear the tape?"

15 Q: And were you talking to both Inspector Hendrix and 16 Inspector Sanders or just one of them?

17 A: I don't recall, but I think it was Napoleon.

18 Q: And when you asked him "Did you hear the tape" what 19 did he say?

20 A: As I recall, he said, "Yeah, I listened to it, but it 21 was -- you know, your boy has got to come in and lay it 22 all out. He has got to do better than -- than this."

23 Q: So, he gave you the impression he had listened to the 24 tape?

25 A: Yes, as I recall I believe so.

26 . . .

27 A: Or maybe I told him about the content of the tape. I 28 don't know that he sat and listened to the whole thing.
Maybe I came away with that impression. But I was excited about it. I told him why. And he said, you know
--

Q: He made specific suggestions about additional information that he would like to see Ricard provide?

A: And he said that while it was a good interview, he was

1 still very vague on specifics. And so he -- as I recall, 2 he told me that if he was going to do this then 3 -- then he would be -- he would need a gun, named additional suspects, vehicles, or something tangible to turn this thing around.

4 Id. at 66-68.

5 At his 2001 deposition, Sanders testified that he received the 6 tape of the Ricard confession within a day or two after it was 7 made. Purcell Dec., Ex. 40, Sanders Depo. at 126. Sanders stated 8 that "the first thing I did -- we did -- was compare the two tapes.
9 And they were diabolically [sic] opposed. One, he had nothing to 10 do with it, and on this one he's -- in this interview, he's 11 confessing. Further, in analyzing his statements in the November 12 7th statement, . . . there were just all kinds of unverifiable, 13 flawed facts in his case. So with this, we wanted to talk to him 14 again. And was -- and to talk to Mr. Lovinsky again. But he was 15 then covered by an attorney, and he didn't want to talk anymore."

16 Id. In answer to the question whether he withheld the copy of the 17 tape from Butterworth, Sanders replied, "No, this was something 18 that was paramount. We got ahold [sic] of him right away and we 19 had to talk to him about it, told him we were investigating it."

20 Id.

21 In his June 2, 2005 declaration submitted in support of his 22 motion for summary judgment, Sanders states that he learned of 23 Ricard's taped confession from Butterworth in May, 1991. Sanders 24 Dec. at ¶ 10. At the time, Butterworth was involved in litigating 25 Tennison's motion for new trial and asked Sanders to investigate 26 the statements made by Ricard on the tape. Id. at 10. Sanders 27 states that he never received a copy of the tape from Lewis and 28

1 never had a copy in his possession. Id.

2 At his January 18, 2005 deposition, Hendrix testified that he 3 learned of the Ricard confession from Sanders, but could not 4 remember when Sanders told him about it. Purcell Dec., Ex. 1, 5 Hendrix Depo. at 57, 63. Hendrix testified that he never listened 6 to the audiotape of the confession. Id. at 63. Hendrix testified
7 that he and Sanders were responsible for turning over evidence 8 connected to the Shannon homicide to the district attorney because 9 it was their case. Id. at 64. He testified that he never took any 10 steps to turn the tape of Ricard's confession over to Butterworth, 11 because it was never in his possession. Id. He stated that he 12 felt it was Lewis and Gittens' responsibility to turn the tape over 13 to Butterworth because they took the confession and made the tape.
14 Id. at 67. Hendrix felt angry at Lewis and Gittens for not calling 15 Sanders and himself to conduct the Ricard interview, because the 16 Shannon case was Sanders' and Hendrix' responsibility, and if there 17 was a development in it, he and Sanders should have been contacted.
18 Id. at 67, 70-71. After he learned of the taped confession, 19 Hendrix didn't care about the tape, he just wanted to find Ricard
20 and he and Sanders took steps to try to locate him. Id. at 67, 70, 21 72. They located Ricard's father and a girl who was keeping 22 company with Ricard and went to the places where Ricard usually 23 hung out, on the street corners and up in the projects. Id.
24 Ricard's father told them that Ricard had left town and there was 25 no sense in them looking for him. Id. at 72-73. Hendrix testified 26 that he and Sanders tried to locate Ricard over a period of months.
27 Id. at 73. During this time Hendrix never informed Butterworth of 28

1 their efforts to locate Ricard. Id.

2 In his June 2, 2005 declaration submitted in support of his 3 motion for summary judgment, Hendrix states that he first became 4 aware of Ricard's taped confession from Sanders who said that he 5 had learned of it from Butterworth. Hendrix Dec. at ¶ 10. Hendrix 6 states that he never had a copy of the Ricard taped statement in 7 his possession. Id.

8 Butterworth testifies that he first learned of Ricard's 9 confession in May, 1991 when he ran into Lewis in the cafeteria in 10 the Hall of Justice. Butterworth Dec. at ¶ 23. At that time, 11 Butterworth was in the midst of the hearing on Tennison's motion 12 for a new trial. Id. Lewis informed Butterworth that he had a 13 tape-recorded interview with Ricard admitting that he killed
14 Shannon. Id. Butterworth told Lewis that he did not have a copy 15 of the audiotape and asked Lewis to give him a copy, which Lewis 16 did. Id. Butterworth contacted Sanders and informed him of the 17 taped Ricard confession. Id. Sanders responded that he was not 18 aware of any statement in which Ricard admitted killing Shannon.
19 Id. Butterworth immediately informed Tennison's defense counsel of 20 the taped statement, and he included it in his new trial motion.
21 Id. Butterworth asked Sanders to assist him in responding to the 22 new trial motion; Hendrix was not available to work on it. Id.
23 Sanders did some follow-up work to check out some of the statements 24 Ricard had made on the tape, such as visiting a store mentioned by 25 Ricard to see what type of shotgun ammunition the store sold. Id.
26 After he reviewed Ricard's statement with Sanders, Butterworth
27 concluded that Ricard's confession was not credible. Id.

1 Butterworth helped Sanders prepare a declaration regarding Ricard's
2 confession, which he submitted to the court. Id.

3 Very soon after the jury verdict against Tennison, Tennison
4 heard from friends that Ricard might be implicated in the Shannon 5 murder. Wong Dec., Ex. E., Transcript of New Trial Motion at 132.
6 Tennison gave this information to Adachi. Id. at 142-43. Adachi, 7 eventually found Ricard and convinced him to make a videotaped 8 confession, which he did anonymously with a hood over his head.
9 Purcell Dec., Ex. 41, Adachi Dec. at ¶ 4. Because the Public
10 Defender's Office was representing Ricard in a separate matter, 11 Adachi's supervisors informed him that he was required to withdraw 12 from representing Tennison, with the new trial motion pending. Id.
13 While he was representing Tennison, no one from the district
14 attorney's office or the SFPD informed him of Ricard's November 7, 15 1990 taped confession to police. Id. at 6. On March 1, 1991, 16 Adachi was replaced as Tennison's counsel by LeRue Grim. On May 17 17, 1991, the second-to-last day of the hearing on Tennison's new 18 trial motion, Butterworth informed Grim of the Ricard tape.
19 Melton, Goff's attorney, was not informed by anyone from the 20 district attorney's office or the SFPD of the November 7, 1990
21 Ricard taped confession. Melton Dec. at ¶ 6.

22 Tennison's motion for a new trial was based, in part, on the 23 tape of Ricard's anonymous confession that Adachi had made. Wong
24 Dec., Ex. GG, October 8, 1990 California court of appeal decision 25 in People v. Tennison, appeal no. A054353 at 5. At the hearing on 26 the motion, Adachi, based on his attorney-client obligations to 27 Ricard, refused to disclose the identity of the videotaped 28

1 interviewee, but testified that he made the tape in conjunction 2 with Tennison's case and he provided the tape to Tennison's new 3 counsel. Wong Dec., Ex. E, Transcript of New Trial Motion at 16 4 passim, 91-94, 102-03. In order to authenticate the video-tape of 5 the anonymous confession, Tennison and Adachi testified about how 6 they found out that Ricard was involved in the Shannon murder. Id.
7 at 47-48, 133 passim. Grim, Tennison's attorney at the new trial 8 proceeding, explained that the testimony was not offered for the 9 truth of the matter, but to show a cumulative, causal chain that 10 led to Tennison's discussion with Adachi regarding Ricard. Id. at 11 132. Tennison stated that in the beginning of October, 1990, about 12 a week after he was convicted, his friends, who thought he would be 13 acquitted because they knew that he was not involved, told him that 14 two people, Lavista Ricard and Luther Blue, were involved in the 15 murder. Id. Tennison called Ricard from the county jail. Id. at 16 133. Ricard told Tennison that he had been among the people who 17 had chased Shannon and that he had fired a shot at him. Id. at 18 136. Tennison asked Ricard to come forward and admit to being the 19 shooter and Ricard agreed to speak to Tennison's lawyer. Id. at 20 138. About a week later, Tennison told Adachi about his 21 conversation with Ricard. Id. at 140. In November, 1990, Adachi 22 told Tennison that he'd called Ricard several times, but hadn't 23 received an answer. Id. at 141-42. Tennison also asked his 24 brother, Bruce Tennison, to speak to Adachi about tracking down 25 Ricard. Id. at 142. Tennison met with Adachi later in November, 26 1990, and Adachi told him he had talked to Ricard over the phone 27 and Ricard had admitted to the crime. Id. at 142-43. Adachi set

1 up a meeting with Ricard, but Ricard failed to show up. Id. at 2 143-44. In about December, 1990, Tennison met Luther Blue, who was 3 also in jail. Id. at 144. Blue told Tennison that he had 4 witnessed the Shannon homicide and that he was willing to testify
5 to help Tennison, but when Adachi questioned Blue, he denied 6 knowing anything about the shooting. Id. at 145-46. Tennison
7 stated that Blue told him that homicide inspectors had interviewed 8 Ricard who made a taped statement admitting that he shot Shannon.
9 Id. at 170. Blue also mentioned that a person named Chauntey White 10 was connected with the murder. Id. Tennison testified that in 11 November or December, 1990, his brother, Bruce Tennison, told him 12 that he had talked to Ricard and Ricard told Bruce that Ricard had 13 made a statement to the police admitting to the crime. Id. at 205.
14 Adachi testified that Tennison had given him Ricard's name, address 15 and telephone number very soon after the verdict or even during the 16 trial. Id. at 75.

17 The trial court denied Tennison's motion on the grounds that 18 the tapes of the two Ricard confessions were legally inadmissible 19 and, even if they were admissible, Ricard's statements contained so 20 many inconsistencies that they could not be considered to be 21 trustworthy. People v. Tennison, appeal no. A05453 at 6. The 22 appellate court affirmed. Regarding the admissibility of Ricard's 23 confessions, the court stated that Tennison had "made no showing 24 that he had diligently attempted to obtain Ricard's attendance at 25 the hearing on the motion for new trial, or that he would be 26 legally unavailable to testify at a new trial, a prerequisite for 27 application of the declaration against interest exception [to the 28

1 hearsay rule]." Id. at 7. Regarding the trustworthiness of the 2 confession, the court stated,

3 Ricard's refusal to provide the police or Adachi any 4 names and his inability to account for the whereabouts of 5 the gun undermine his credibility because his version of 6 the incident cannot be corroborated. Likewise the 7 inconsistencies between his two statements, between his 8 statements and the evidence at trial, and between his 9 statements and appellant's testimony cast doubt on their 10 trustworthiness. For instance, Ricard stated that he 11 fired once, but the medical evidence established two 12 shots to the victim's body and witnesses referred to 13 multiple gunshots. . . . Ricard stated that he came 14 forward because 'two of my friends' were going down for 15 the crime, but appellant testified he did not know 16 Ricard, had never seen him, and had only first spoken 17 with him on the telephone after the verdict. Given such 18 inconsistencies, the court did not err in determining 19 Ricard's statements were untrustworthy and thus 20 inadmissible.

21 Id. 7-8.

22 At the § 4900 hearing, Goff testified that, about three to 23 four weeks after Shannon was shot, he heard rumors on the street
24 that Ricard may have had something to do with the murder. Wong 25 Dec., Ex. F, Transcript of § 4900 Hearing at 579. Goff had also 26 heard rumors that the chase started at a Seven-Eleven store. Id.
27 at 578. Goff testified that a month or two after the murder, he 28 had been among a crowd of people who were listening to Ricard brag about shooting Shannon. Id. at 580. Goff assumed that Ricard was lying because he didn't think the real shooter would brag about it on the street. Id. at 582. Goff knew Ricard because they lived in the same neighborhood, but they weren't friends. Id. at 636.
About a month after he was charged with committing the Shannon murder, Goff told Melton that he had heard Ricard brag about shooting Shannon and Melton replied that he would look into it.

1 Id. at 595.

2 IV. Plaintiffs' Claims

3 In their complaints, Tennison and Goff allege that Butterworth 4 participated in the suppression of material, exculpatory evidence, 5 and manufactured evidence by pressuring Pauline to retract her 6 recantation. Tennison and Goff allege the following claims against 7 the Inspectors: (1) they participated in the suppression of 8 material, exculpatory and impeachment evidence that probably would 9 have led to Tennison's and Goff's acquittal; and (2) they actively 10 solicited perjured testimony while deliberately ignoring and 11 failing to investigate exculpatory evidence.

12 LEGAL STANDARD

13 I. Summary Judgment

14 Summary judgment is properly granted when no genuine and 15 disputed issues of material fact remain, and when, viewing the 16 evidence most favorably to the non-moving party, the movant is 17 clearly entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Fed. R. Civ. P.
18 56; Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322-23 (1986); 19 Eisenberg v. Ins. Co. of N. Am., 815 F.2d 1285, 1288-89 (9th Cir.
20 1987).

21 The moving party bears the burden of showing that there is no
22 material factual dispute. Therefore, the court must regard as true 23 the opposing party's evidence, if supported by affidavits or other 24 evidentiary material. Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324; Eisenberg, 815 25 F.2d at 1289. The court must draw all reasonable inferences in 26 favor of the party against whom summary judgment is sought.
27 Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574,

1 587 (1986); Intel Corp. v. Hartford Accident & Indem. Co., 952 F.2d 2 1551, 1558 (9th Cir. 1991).

3 Material facts which would preclude entry of summary judgment 4 are those which, under applicable substantive law, may affect the 5 outcome of the case. The substantive law will identify which facts
6 are material. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 7 (1986).

8 Where the moving party does not bear the burden of proof on an 9 issue at trial, the moving party may discharge its burden of 10 showing that no genuine issue of material fact remains by 11 demonstrating that "there is an absence of evidence to support the 12 nonmoving party's case." Celotex, 477 U.S. at 325. The moving 13 party is not required to produce evidence showing the absence of a 14 material fact on such issues, nor must the moving party support its 15 motion with evidence negating the non-moving party's claim. Id.; 16 see also Lujan v. Nat'l Wildlife Fed'n, 497 U.S. 871, 885 (1990);
17 Bhan v. NME Hosps., Inc., 929 F.2d 1404, 1409 (9th Cir. 1991), 18 cert. denied, 502 U.S. 994 (1991). If the moving party shows an 19 absence of evidence to support the non-moving party's case, the 20 burden then shifts to the opposing party to produce "specific 21 evidence, through affidavits or admissible discovery material, to 22 show that the dispute exists." Bhan, 929 F.2d at 1409. A complete 23 failure of proof concerning an essential element of the non-moving 24 party's case necessarily renders all other facts immaterial.
25 Celotex, 477 U.S. at 323.

26 Where the moving party bears the burden of proof on an issue 27 at trial, it must, in order to discharge its burden of showing that 28

1 no genuine issue of material fact remains, make a prima facie
2 showing in support of its position on that issue. UA Local 343 v.
3 Nor-Cal Plumbing, Inc., 48 F.3d 1465, 1471 (9th Cir. 1994). That 4 is, the moving party must present evidence that, if uncontroverted 5 at trial, would entitle it to prevail on that issue. Id.; see also 6 Int'l Shortstop, Inc. v. Rally's, Inc., 939 F.2d 1257, 1264-65 (5th 7 Cir. 1991). Once it has done so, the non-moving party must set 8 forth specific facts controverting the moving party's prima facie 9 case. UA Local 343, 48 F.3d at 1471. The non-moving party's 10 "burden of contradicting [the moving party's] evidence is not 11 negligible." Id. This standard does not change merely because 12 resolution of the relevant issue is "highly fact specific." Id.

13 II. Constitutional Claims Under 42 U.S.C. § 1983

14 Title 42 U.S.C. § 1983 "provides a cause of action for the 15 'deprivation of any rights, privileges, or immunities secured by 16 the Constitution and laws' of the United States." Wilder v.
17 Virginia Hosp. Ass'n, 496 U.S. 498, 508 (1990) (quoting 42 U.S.C.
18 § 1983). Section 1983 is not itself a source of substantive 19 rights, but merely provides a method for vindicating federal rights
20 elsewhere conferred. Graham v. Connor, 490 U.S. 386, 393-94 21 (1989). In order to state a claim under § 1983, Plaintiffs must 22 allege two elements: (1) the violation of a right secured by the 23 Constitution or laws of the United States, and (2) the alleged 24 violation was committed by a person acting under the color of State 25 law. West v. Atkins, 487 U.S. 42, 48 (1988)(citations omitted).

26 An individual defendant is liable for money damages under 27 § 1983 only if the defendant personally participated in or 28

1 otherwise proximately caused the unconstitutional deprivations of 2 which the plaintiff complains. Leer v. Murphy, 844 F.2d 628, 634
3 (9th Cir. 1988). To establish individual liability, a plaintiff
4 must allege one of the following: (1) the defendant personally 5 participated in or ordered the constitutional violation; (2) the 6 defendant, acting in a supervisory capacity, failed to train 7 properly or supervise personnel, resulting in the violation; 8 (3) the defendant was responsible for an official policy or custom 9 which caused the violation; or (4) the defendant knew of the 10 violation and failed to prevent it. Taylor v. List, 880 F.2d 1040, 11 1045 (9th Cir. 1989); Ybarra v. Reno Thunderbird Mobile Home, 723
12 F.2d 675, 680 (9th Cir. 1984).

13 PRELIMINARY PROCEDURAL MATTERS

14 I. Motion To Strike

15 Citing Kennedy v. Allied Mut. Ins. Co., 952 F.2d 262, 266 (9th 16 Cir. 1991), Foster v. Arcata Assocs., 772 F.2d 1453, 1462 (9th Cir.
17 1985) and Radobenko v. Automated Equip. Corp., 520 F.2d 540, 543-33
18 (9th Cir. 1975), Plaintiffs move to strike Hendrix' and Sanders' 19 declaration statements that they did not learn of the November 7, 20 1990 Ricard confession until May, 1991, on the ground that these 21 statements contradict their prior deposition testimony. Hendrix 22 and Sanders have not filed an opposition to this motion.

23 In Radobenko, the Ninth Circuit held that a party who had been 24 examined at length by deposition could not create an issue of fact 25 on a motion for summary judgment by submitting an affidavit 26 contradicting his own prior testimony because this would greatly 27 diminish the utility of summary judgment as a method for screening 28

1 sham issues of fact. Kennedy, 952 F.2d at 266 (citing Radobenko, 2 520 F.2d at 543-44)). In Kennedy, the Ninth Circuit clarified that 3 the rule enunciated in Radobenko does not automatically dispose of 4 every case in which a contradictory affidavit is submitted to 5 explain portions of prior deposition testimony and that, before 6 striking a declaration, the district court must make a factual 7 finding that the contradiction was actually a sham. Id. at 266-67.

8 As explained above, at Sanders' 2001 deposition given in the 9 habeas corpus case, he stated that he received the information 10 about the November 7, 1990 Ricard confession within a day or two 11 after November 7, 1990 and that he immediately turned the tape over 12 to Butterworth. In his June 2, 2005 declaration, Sanders states 13 that he first learned of the Ricard confession in May, 1991 from 14 Butterworth. The statement in Sanders' declaration does not 15 explain or clarify his deposition testimony; it directly 16 contradicts it and its only purpose would be to create a sham
17 dispute of fact to survive summary judgment. Therefore, the motion 18 to strike this statement is granted.

19 At Hendrix' January 18, 2005 deposition, he testified that he 20 received the information about the Ricard confession from Sanders 21 sometime after November, 1990, and that after Sanders told him
22 about the confession, they spent months attempting to locate Ricard 23 to ask him questions about the Shannon homicide.

24 In his June 2, 2005 declaration, Hendrix states that he 25 learned of the Ricard tape from Sanders, who had learned of it from 26 Butterworth. Hendrix also testified that he did not investigate 27 the confession.

1 Hendrix' declaration statement that he learned of Ricard's
2 confession from Sanders does not contradict his prior deposition
3 testimony; therefore it is not stricken. However, his declaration 4 statement that Sanders learned of the tape from Butterworth is 5 inadmissible hearsay and it is stricken on this basis. Hendrix'
6 declaration statement that he did not investigate the confession
7 directly contradicts his deposition testimony; it does not clarify 8 or explain his testimony. Therefore, this statement is stricken.

9 Plaintiffs also move to strike Sanders' declaration that he 10 believed the Ricard confession to be false because gang members 11 often confessed to crimes they didn't commit to create doubt about 12 the original suspect's role in the crime. Sanders Dec. at ¶ 12.
13 Plaintiffs point to Sanders' 2001 deposition in the habeas case, 14 where the question was put to him, "Did you ever have a gang member 15 confess to a crime he didn't do?" Sanders responded, "Confess to 16 crime he didn't . . . no. It's hard enough to get them on the 17 crimes that they do." Balogh Reply Dec., Ex. 63, Sanders 2001
18 Depo. at 96. However, in a declaration dated June 24, 1991, 19 submitted in Tennison's new trial motion, Sanders stated that 20 Ricard's confession, "which is totally incapable of independent 21 corroboration, does little more than represent an effort to confuse 22 and pervert the criminal justice system . . . members of the gangs 23 will often attempt to manipulate the system to their collective 24 advantage, even after one of their friends has been convicted.
25 . . . They know that a completely uncorroborated, factually flawed 26 statement, even if made to a police officer, cannot properly be the 27 basis for a criminal prosecution." Purcell Dec., Ex. 48, Sanders'

1 June 24, 1991 Dec. at 2-3. Because Sanders made a statement in 2 1991 that was similar to the one he made in his 2005 declaration, 3 the 2005 statement is not a sham to survive summary judgment.
4 Therefore, Plaintiffs' motion to strike Sanders' statement about 5 gang members' confessions is denied.

6 Plaintiffs' motion to strike is therefore GRANTED in part and 7 DENIED in part.

8 II. Request To Submit Statement of Facts

9 In their reply brief, the Inspectors request leave to submit a 10 statement of disputed and undisputed facts with citations to 11 evidence, pursuant to Civil Local Rule 56-2(a). They argue that 12 this is necessary because there are many misstatements of facts in 13 Plaintiffs' briefs. A separate statement of facts is unnecessary:
14 the Court looks at the evidence cited by the parties to support 15 their arguments and determines the accuracy of the statements of 16 fact in the briefs. Therefore, the Inspectors' request to submit a 17 separate statement of disputed and undisputed facts is DENIED.

18 III. Evidentiary Objections

19 The Inspectors object to statements in Plaintiffs' briefs as 20 mischaracterizations of the evidence and object to various pieces 21 of evidence. The Court has reviewed these evidentiary objections 22 and has not relied on any inadmissible evidence. The Court will 23 not discuss each objection individually. To the extent that the 24 Court has relied on evidence to which the Inspectors object, such 25 evidence has been found admissible and the objections are 26 overruled.

1 IV. Effect of Habeas Corpus Order

2 Citing Prudential Real Estate Affiliates, Inc. v. PPR Realty, 3 Inc., 204 F.3d 867, 877 (9th Cir. 2000), the Inspectors argue that 4 the Court's August 26, 2003 Habeas Order has no preclusive effect 5 in this action because the Inspectors were not parties to the 6 habeas case and were not in privity with the respondent in the 7 habeas case or the State of California. Plaintiffs do not respond 8 to this argument.

9 The Inspectors are correct that the doctrine of collateral 10 estoppel that precludes the relitigation of issues previously 11 decided requires that the parties in the second action be the same 12 as or in privity with the parties in the prior proceeding. The 13 Inspectors also are correct that they were not in privity with the 14 respondent in the habeas case and that the habeas respondent did 15 not present a good deal of the evidence submitted by the Inspectors 16 or make some of the arguments that the Inspectors make here.

17 Therefore, the Court concludes that the findings and 18 conclusions in the Habeas Order do not have any preclusive effect 19 on the issues in this case. However, in certain instances, the 20 facts and arguments addressed in the Habeas Order are identical to 21 those presented here. In those instances, the Court may reach the 22 same conclusions it did in the Habeas Order.

23 DISCUSSION

24 In their separate motions, Tennison and Goff move for partial 25 summary adjudication on the liability and causation elements of 26 their claims that the Inspectors suppressed three pieces of 27 material, exculpatory evidence: (1) Ricard's taped confession;

(2) Smith's statements corroborating Ricard's confession; and
(3) the Inspectors' request for $2,500 from the SFPD's SWP to pay a witness in the Shannon murder case. Butterworth moves for summary judgment on the grounds that he is absolutely or qualifiedly immune from liability on all of Plaintiffs' claims. The Inspectors move for summary judgment on all of Plaintiffs' causes of action on the grounds that: (1) there is no evidence that they violated Plaintiffs' rights by suppressing material information; (2) there is no evidence that they fabricated witness testimony; and (3) they are either absolutely or qualifiedly immune from liability for all alleged constitutional violations.

I. Butterworth's Motion for Summary Judgment

Butterworth argues that he is entitled to summary judgment because at all relevant times he was acting in the role of a prosecutor and thus is entitled to absolute immunity. He argues, in the alternative, that he is entitled to qualified immunity on all claims. Tennison's opposition addresses only Butterworth's conduct in questioning Pauline on April 22, 23, and 24, 1990. Goff's opposition addresses only Butterworth's failure to disclose the Ricard confession to him. Therefore, the Court grants Butterworth's motion for summary judgment on all of Plaintiffs' other claims.

A. The Questioning of Pauline

1. Absolute Immunity

"An official seeking absolute immunity bears the burden of showing that such immunity is justified for the function in question." Genzler v. Longanbach, 410 F.3d 630, 636 (9th Cir.

1 2005) (quoting Burns v. Reed, 500 U.S. 478, 486 (1991)). The 2 presumption is that qualified, rather than absolute, immunity is 3 sufficient to protect government employees in the performance of 4 their official duties. Milstein v. Cooley, 257 F.3d 1004, 1008 5 (9th Cir. 2001) (citing Burns, 500 U.S. at 486-87).

6 A prosecutor performing an advocate's role is an officer of 7 the court entitled to absolute immunity. Buckley v. Fitzsimmons, 8 509 U.S. 259, 272-73 (1993). Prosecutors therefore are absolutely 9 immune from liability for their conduct as "advocates" during the 10 initiation of a criminal case and its presentation at trial. Id.; 11 Imbler v. Pachtman, 424 U.S. 409, 430-31 (1976) (prosecutor 12 entitled to absolute immunity from suit alleging that he knowingly 13 used perjured testimony and suppressed material exculpatory
14 evidence at trial); Burns, 500 U.S. at 490-91 & n.6 (prosecutors 15 absolutely immune for their conduct before grand juries and in 16 presenting evidence at probable-cause hearings for a search 17 warrant).

18 Prosecutors are entitled only to qualified, not absolute, 19 immunity when they perform administrative or investigatory, rather 20 than advocacy, functions. Kalina v. Fletcher, 522 U.S. 118, 122-31 21 (1997). Thus, in determining immunity, the court examines the 22 nature of the function performed, not the identity of the actor who 23 performed it. Id. at 127. Absolute immunity requires that the 24 activities at issue be "intimately associated with the judicial 25 phase of the criminal process." Imbler, 424 U.S. at 430.

26 Prosecutors are not acting as advocates, and therefore are not 27 entitled to absolute immunity, before they have probable cause to 28

1 have anyone arrested. Buckley, 509 U.S. at 274; Herb Hallman
2 Chevrolet, Inc. v. Nash-Holmes, 169 F.3d 636, 643 (9th Cir. 1999).
3 However, even after probable cause has been established, 4 prosecutors are absolutely immune only for quasi-judicial 5 functions, not investigatory or administrative actions. Broam v.
6 Bogan, 320 F.3d 1023, 1030-31 (9th Cir. 2003); Genzler, 410 F.3d at 7 638.

8 Activities in preparation for trial, such as the interview of 9 witnesses, may be investigatory or advocacy in nature. Genzler, 10 410 F.3d at 638. The timing of the prosecutor's conduct is a 11 relevant, but not determinative, factor. Id. at 639-40.

12 Tennison presents several grounds for his contention that 13 Butterworth was acting as an investigator when questioning Pauline 14 and thus is not entitled to absolute immunity. First, citing 15 Buckley, 509 U.S. at 274, Tennison argues that Butterworth did not 16 have probable cause to believe that Tennison was involved in the 17 Shannon homicide when he questioned Pauline. Tennison bases this 18 on the fact that the November 28, 1989 warrant for Tennison's
19 arrest was predicated upon Hendrix' affidavit in which Hendrix
20 swore that Pauline corroborated Masina's account of the shooting 21 incident. See Balogh Reply Dec., Ex. 57, Arrest Warrant for 22 Tennison and Hendrix Affidavit. Tennison argues that Hendrix' 23 affidavit was false because Pauline's statement to the police was 24 inconsistent with Masina's story.

25 Pursuant to Buckley, 509 U.S. at 274, if at the time
26 Butterworth interviewed Pauline probable cause to arrest Tennison 27 was lacking, Butterworth was acting as an investigator, and not as 28

1 an advocate.

2 The Court concludes that on April 22, 1990, there was probable
3 cause to arrest Tennison. As noted by Butterworth, the information
4 in Hendrix' affidavit regarding Pauline's corroboration of Masina's
5 story, which Tennison states was false, was presented to the court
6 in both Tennison's and Goff's probable cause hearings. See Achiron
7 Reply Dec., Ex. D, Tennison Preliminary Hearing; Ex. C, Goff
8 Preliminary Hearing. At Tennison's preliminary hearing only Masina 9 testified, but the court heard testimony that Pauline had recanted
10 and that Masina had spoken to her after she recanted. At Goff's 11 preliminary hearing, Butterworth called only Masina, but Goff 12 called Pauline as a defense witness. Pauline was examined on the 13 discrepancies between her testimony and Masina's, her recantation 14 and her telephone conversation with Masina regarding her 15 recantation. The court, in both cases, found probable cause.

16 Because the accuracy of the information contained in Hendrix' 17 arrest warrant affidavit was tested in court and the court found 18 probable cause, Tennison's argument that Hendrix' affidavit was 19 insufficient to establish probable cause to arrest is unpersuasive.

20 Tennison next argues that, even if there was probable cause 21 for his initial arrest, there was no probable cause after Pauline 22 recanted on April 22, 1990. Tennison cites Butterworth's 23 deposition at p.p. 327-328 to establish that, after Pauline 24 recanted, Butterworth conceded that he needed Pauline to establish 25 probable cause. However, Butterworth did not concede this at his 26 deposition. Butterworth stated that he had to cancel the 27 preliminary hearing scheduled for April 23, 1990 because Pauline's 28

1 recantation "raised some question in my mind as to how valuable a 2 witness she was going to be and whether I wanted to rely upon her 3 for a probable cause finding. And if she were to testify at a 4 preliminary hearing and recant, the only way I would have gotten a 5 holding would be to have impeached her with her prior inconsistent 6 statement. And I wasn't comfortable doing that, given the record
7 of the 707 hearing. . . . I know that I wasn't comfortable 8 proceeding in the face of her recantation. And I didn't have any 9 other witnesses who were in a position to make an identification, 10 so it wasn't really a difficult call at that point [to cancel the 11 preliminary hearing]." Wong Dec., Ex. O, Butterworth Depo. at 327-12 328. Thus, Butterworth did not cancel the preliminary hearing 13 because he believed probable cause was lacking, but because Masina 14 was unavailable as a witness. When Masina was available as a 15 witness, she alone testified at Tennison's rescheduled probable 16 cause hearing. Tennison's argument that probable cause was 17 extinguished by Pauline's recantation is not persuasive.

18 Tennison argues that even if probable cause did exist during 19 Butterworth's questioning of Pauline, Butterworth was acting as an 20 investigator because his purpose in interviewing Pauline was to 21 persuade Pauline to change her story so that it would be consistent 22 with Masina's.

23 As discussed in Gensler, 410 F.3d at 639, timing is an 24 important element in determining whether the prosecutor is engaging 25 in investigatory police activity or acting as a prosecutor. Here, 26 the timing weighs in favor of concluding that Butterworth was 27 acting as a prosecutor rather than an investigator. When Pauline 28

1 came to meet with Butterworth on April 22, 1990, the judicial 2 proceedings against Tennison were underway. The section 707
3 hearing regarding Tennison was held in March and April, 1990, with 4 Pauline as a witness. Tennison was arrested on April 5, 1990 and 5 his preliminary hearing was set for April 23, 1990. That 6 Butterworth met with Pauline immediately before Tennison's
7 preliminary hearing indicates that Butterworth was meeting with her 8 in his role as a prosecutor marshaling evidence, not as an 9 investigator looking for clues and evidence to establish probable 10 cause.

11 Tennison argues that after Pauline recanted and Butterworth 12 continued interviewing her, his questioning was investigative in 13 nature and coerced her to change her testimony.

14 Intimidating and coercing a witness to change her testimony
15 are not advocacy and are not entitled to absolute immunity. Moore 16 v. Valder, 65 F.3d 189, 194 (D.C. Cir. 1996) (quoted with approval 17 in Gensler, 410 F.3d at 638). Intimidating a witness to change 18 testimony is "a misuse of investigative techniques legitimately 19 directed at exploring whether witness testimony is truthful and 20 complete and whether the government has acquired all incriminating 21 evidence." Id.

22 Although Pauline testified that Butterworth, as well as 23 Hendrix and Masina, told her what to say at the trial, she 24 explained that Butterworth communicated this to her by not wanting 25 to hear her recantation, by not listening to her. Although she 26 stated that Butterworth yelled at her, she also indicated she 27 interpreted Butterworth's behavior toward her to be like a parent 28

1 talking to a child. Pauline's testimony does not provide evidence
2 that Butterworth coerced or intimidated her.

3 Taking the evidence in the light most favorable to Plaintiffs,
4 Plaintiffs have failed to raise a triable issue of material fact 5 that Butterworth was not acting in his capacity as prosecutor at 6 all times during his interaction with Pauline on April 20 through 7 April 22, 1990 and thus is entitled to absolute immunity.
8 Therefore, Butterworth's motion for summary judgment on Tennison's 9 claim regarding Pauline's interviews on April 20 through April 22, 10 1990 is GRANTED. Nonetheless, the Court discusses whether, even if 11 Butterworth was not acting as a prosecutor, but was acting as an 12 investigator, he is entitled to qualified immunity.

13 2. Qualified Immunity

14 The defense of qualified immunity protects "government 15 officials . . . from liability for civil damages insofar as their 16 conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or 17 constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have 18 known." Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818 (1982). The 19 threshold question is whether, if all factual disputes were 20 resolved in favor of the party asserting the injury, the evidence 21 would show the defendant's conduct violated a constitutional right.
22 Saucier v. Katz, 533 U.S. 194, 201 (2001). "If no constitutional 23 right would have been violated were the allegations established, 24 there is no necessity for further inquiries concerning qualified 25 immunity." Id. On the other hand, if a violation could be made 26 out on the allegations, the next step is to ask whether the 27 constitutional right in issue was clearly established. Id. The

1 question here is whether it would be clear to a reasonable officer
2 that his conduct was unlawful in the situation he confronted. Id.
3 If the law did not put the officer on notice that his conduct would 4 be clearly unlawful, summary judgment based on qualified immunity 5 is appropriate. Id.

6 The Ninth Circuit engages in a two-part test to determine if 7 the right was clearly established at the time of the allegedly 8 impermissible conduct. Franklin v. Fox, 312 F.3d 423, 437 (9th 9 Cir. 2002). First, it must be determined if the law that governs 10 the official's conduct was clearly established. Id. It is not 11 necessary that a prior decision rule "the very action in question" 12 unlawful for a right to be clearly established. Anderson v.
13 Creighton, 483 U.S. 635, 640 (1987). Indeed, some wrongs are self-14 evident and a "right can be clearly established on the basis of 15 'common sense.'" Lee v. Gregory, 363 F.3d 931, 935 (9th Cir.
16 2004). The plaintiff bears the burden of proving that the right 17 was clearly established at the time of the allegedly impermissible 18 conduct. Maraziti v. First Interstate Bank, 953 F.2d 520, 523 (9th 19 Cir. 1992).

20 The next question is whether, under that clearly established 21 law, a reasonable official could have believed his conduct was 22 lawful. Act Up!/Portland v. Bagley, 988 F.2d 868, 871-72 (9th Cir.
23 1993). The defendant bears the burden of establishing that his or 24 her actions were reasonable, Doe v. Petaluma City Sch. Dist., 54 25 F.3d 1447, 1450 (9th Cir. 1995), and the defendant's good faith or 26 subjective belief in the legality of his or her actions is 27 irrelevant. Alford v. Haner, 333 F.3d 972, 978-79 (9th Cir. 2003).

1 Thus, the Court must decide first whether, if the facts
2 Plaintiffs allege are true, Butterworth committed a constitutional 3 violation. If so, the Court must then decide if the law was clearly 4 established at the time of the conduct at issue, and if so, whether 5 Butterworth's conduct was objectively reasonable.

6 Tennison contends that Butterworth's conduct in regard to 7 Pauline violated his constitutional right to be free from criminal 8 charges based on deliberately fabricated false evidence.

9 Individuals have a constitutional due process right to be free 10 from criminal charges based upon deliberately fabricated false 11 evidence. Devereaux v. Abbey, 263 F.3d 1070, 1074-75 (9th Cir.
12 2001) (en banc). To prevail on this claim, a plaintiff, at a 13 minimum, must show that (1) the officer continued his investigation 14 despite the fact he knew or should have known that the suspect was 15 innocent or (2) the officer used investigative techniques that were 16 so coercive and abusive that he knew or should have known that they 17 would yield false information. Id. at 1076; Cunningham v. Perez, 18 345 F.3d 802, 811-12 (9th Cir. 2003) (that officer continued to 19 interview suspected child sex abuse victims after they initially 20 denied abuse not so coercive or abusive that he knew or should have 21 known he would receive false information). There is no 22 constitutional right to have witnesses interviewed in a particular 23 manner or to have the investigation carried on in a particular way.
24 Devereaux, 263 F.3d at 1075. Therefore, suggestive interview
25 tactics alone do not amount to a constitutional violation. Gausvik 26 v. Perez, 345 F.3d 813, 817 (9th Cir. 2003) (officer's continued 27 questioning of alleged sexual abuse victims after victims initially 28

1 denied abuse and telling alleged victim she could not leave until 2 she admitted abuse not so coercive and abusive that officer knew or 3 should have known that he would receive false information).

4 In regard to the first Devereaux prong, after Pauline recanted, 5 it was incumbent upon Butterworth to gather information to determine 6 whether Pauline or Masina was being truthful. Furthermore, although 7 Pauline recanted, it does not necessarily follow that, on this 8 basis, Butterworth knew or should have know that Tennison was 9 innocent. As noted above, Butterworth dismissed Tennison's case 10 after Pauline's recantation because Masina, the only other witness, 11 was in Samoa, and thus was not available to testify at Tennison's 12 preliminary hearing, which was scheduled for the next day. Because 13 Pauline never stated that she saw Goff at the crime scene, she was 14 not needed as a witness at Goff's preliminary hearing, and her 15 recantation was not relevant to his case. Plaintiffs have produced 16 no evidence to demonstrate that Butterworth knew or should have 17 known that Tennison was innocent at that point and should not have 18 continued investigating. Thus, the first Devereaux prong does not 19 apply.

20 In regard to the second Devereaux prong, the evidence shows 21 that when Pauline recanted, Butterworth raised his voice and 22 confronted her. However, Pauline testified that Butterworth's 23 frustration with her reminded her of how a parent would reprimand a 24 child and that Butterworth never told her what to say. Furthermore, 25 Butterworth's contact with Pauline was relatively brief. He met 26 with her for approximately half an hour on April 22nd, half an hour 27 on April 23rd and a few minutes on April 24th. Almost the entire

1 interview on April 23rd was recorded and nothing in the interview 2 was coercive. Therefore, assuming the facts Tennison alleges are 3 true, and taking them in the light most favorable to Tennison, the 4 Court finds that Tennison has failed to show that Butterworth 5 violated his constitutional right to be free from being charged on 6 the basis of deliberately fabricated evidence. Therefore, 7 Butterworth is entitled to summary judgment on the basis of 8 qualified as well as absolute immunity on this claim.

9 Even if Tennison had established a constitutional violation, 10 Butterworth would be entitled to qualified immunity. At the time of 11 the events at issue, the law was clearly established. However, a 12 reasonable person could have believed that the actions taken by 13 Butterworth, under the circumstances, were lawful.

14 Thus, summary judgment is GRANTED in Butterworth's favor on 15 Tennison's claim on the basis of qualified as well as absolute 16 immunity.

17 D. Failure to Provide Ricard Confession to Goff

18 Butterworth argues that he is entitled to absolute 19 prosecutorial immunity for his failure to turn Ricard's confession 20 over to Goff after Goff's conviction. Relying on Houston v. Partee, 21 978 F.2d 362, 367 (7th Cir. 1992), Goff argues that Butterworth is 22 not shielded by absolute immunity because he was no longer involved
23 in Goff's prosecution when he learned of the Ricard confession

24 A prosecutor may be absolutely immune for post-conviction
25 conduct, but only if the conduct is an exercise of prosecutorial 26 discretion, and is not purely investigatory or administrative.
27 Broam, 320 F.3d at 1030-31; see Carter v. Burch, 34 F.3d 257 (4th

28

1 Cir. 1994) (upholding absolute immunity for prosecutor who withheld
2 exculpatory evidence while handling defendant's post-conviction
3 motions and direct appeal).

4 Butterworth argues that, on May 17, 1991, the date he became 5 aware of the Ricard confession, he was opposing Tennison's motion 6 for a new trial and therefore was acting as a prosecutor. This may 7 be true in regard to Tennison's post-conviction proceedings, but it 8 does not establish that Butterworth was acting as a prosecutor in 9 regard to Goff's post-conviction proceedings. The cases against 10 Tennison and Goff were consolidated for trial, but the post-trial 11 proceedings were litigated separately: Goff's post-conviction new 12 trial motion was filed on October 19, 1990; it was denied on October 13 31, 1990; on August 9, 1991, he filed an opening brief in his direct 14 appeal of his conviction. Because no post-conviction proceedings 15 were pending in the trial court in Goff's case at the time
16 Butterworth received the tape of Ricard's confession, Butterworth 17 was not acting as a prosecutor in regard to Goff. Because the 18 Attorney General represents the people of the State on appeal, even 19 though Goff's appeal was pending, Butterworth would not have been 20 involved in it.

21 In Houston, the plaintiffs were convicted of committing the 22 gang-related murder of Ronnie Bell. Houston, 978 F.2d at 363.
23 While the plaintiffs' appeals were pending, certain State and 24 federal prosecutors, including the one who had prosecuted the 25 plaintiffs, learned during an investigation of the gang's activities 26 that the Bell murder had been committed by three other individuals, 27 not by the plaintiffs. Id. at 364. None of the prosecutors

28

1 disclosed this information to the plaintiffs or their attorneys,
2 even though they knew it was relevant to the plaintiffs' pending 3 appeals. Id. Four years after the plaintiffs' conviction, the 4 plaintiffs' attorneys found out about the exculpatory evidence on 5 their own and filed post-conviction petitions which were granted.
6 Id. at 363, 365. The plaintiffs sued the prosecutors. The 7 defendant prosecutors had not been involved in the plaintiffs' 8 appeals. Id. at 366. The prosecutors asserted absolute immunity on 9 the plaintiffs' civil § 1983 claims against them on the ground that 10 absolute immunity attached during the plaintiffs' prosecution and 11 continued indefinitely. Id. at 365-66. The court rejected this 12 argument and concluded that, at the time the defendant prosecutors 13 learned about the exculpatory evidence, they were functioning as 14 investigators, not as prosecutors, and thus were not entitled to 15 absolute immunity. Id. at 367.

16 Butterworth argues that Houston is distinguishable because the 17 prosecutors in that case were involved in a new investigation that 18 led to the exculpatory information. Butterworth points out that he 19 was not acting as an investigator, but learned of the exculpatory 20 evidence in his role as prosecutor in Tennison's case.

21 This argument is unavailing because, even if he was not acting 22 as an investigator, neither was he acting as a prosecutor on Goff's 23 case. Accordingly, Butterworth's motion for summary judgment based 24 upon absolute immunity is DENIED. Butterworth does not move for 25 summary judgment based on qualified immunity.

26

27

28

1 II. Plaintiffs' and Inspectors' Cross Motions for Summary
2 Judgment on § 1983 Claims Based on Brady Violations

3 Plaintiffs argue that they are entitled to summary adjudication 4 that the Inspectors deprived them of due process by violating their 5 Brady rights, and that this caused them damage. The Inspectors 6 argue that they are entitled to summary judgment on the ground that 7 there is no evidence that they violated Plaintiffs' constitutional 8 rights and, if they did, they are absolutely or qualifiedly immune
9 from liability.

10 A. Legal Standard for § 1983 Claims Based on Brady Violation

11 In Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 87 (1963), the Supreme Court 12 held that "the suppression by the prosecution of evidence favorable 13 to an accused upon request violates due process where the evidence 14 is material either to guilt or to punishment, irrespective of the 15 good faith or bad faith of the prosecution." Id. The government 16 has a duty to disclose Brady material even if the defense fails to 17 ask for it. United States v. Agurs, 427 U.S. 97, 107 (1976). The 18 duty under Brady encompasses impeachment evidence as well as 19 exculpatory evidence. United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667, 676 20 (1985). The government's promise of a benefit to a witness must be 21 disclosed under Brady. Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150, 154 22 (1972).

23 In the criminal context, "[t]here are three components of a 24 true Brady violation: [t]he evidence at issue must be favorable to 25 the accused, either because it is exculpatory or because it is 26 impeaching; that evidence must have been suppressed by the State, 27 either willfully or inadvertently; and prejudice must have ensued."

1 Strickler v. Greene, 527 U.S. 263, 281-82 (1999). Evidence is 2 material "if there is a reasonable probability that, had the 3 evidence been disclosed to the defense, the result of the proceeding 4 would have been different." Id. at 682. The evidence need not be 5 sufficient affirmatively to prove the defendant innocent; it need 6 only be favorable and material. Gantt v. Roe, 389 F.3d 908, 912 7 (9th Cir. 2004). Materiality is measured in terms of the collective 8 effect of the suppressed material, not item by item. Kyles v.
9 Whitley, 514 U.S. 419, 436 (1995).

10 If the omitted evidence creates a reasonable doubt that 11 did not otherwise exist, constitutional error has been 12 committed. This means that the omission must be evaluated 13 in the context of the entire record. If there is no 14 reasonable doubt about guilt whether or not the additional 15 evidence is considered, there is no justification for a 16 new trial. On the other hand, if the verdict is already 17 of questionable validity, additional evidence of 18 relatively minor importance might be sufficient to create 19 reasonable doubt.

20 Agurs, 427 U.S. at 112-13.

21 The obligation to disclose under Brady "is the obligation of 22 the government, not just the obligation of the prosecutor." United 23 States v. Blanco, 392 F.3d 382, 393 (9th Cir. 2004). The 24 prosecution has a duty to learn of any exculpatory evidence known to 25 others acting on the government's behalf. Kyles v. Whitley, 514
26 U.S. 419, 437-38 (1995). A prosecutor's duty under Brady 27 necessarily requires the cooperation of other government agents who 28 might possess Brady material. Blanco, 392 F.3d at 388. Exculpatory evidence cannot be kept out of the hands of the defense just because the prosecutor does not have it, where an investigating agency does.
Id. at 393-94.

1 In the criminal context, there is no intent requirement to 2 establish a Brady claim; whether non-disclosure was negligent or by 3 design, it is the responsibility of the prosecutor. Brady, 373 U.S.
4 at 87.

5 The parties agree that to establish a civil rights claim based 6 upon a Brady violation, the plaintiff must establish that the 7 defendant intended to violate the plaintiff's constitutional right.
8 However, they disagree on the level of intent that must be 9 established. Citing Cunningham v. City of Wenatchee, 345 F.3d 802, 10 812 (9th Cir. 2003), the Inspectors argue that bad faith must be 11 shown and Plaintiffs argue that intent to violate a constitutional 12 right is all that is required.

13 Cunningham was a civil rights case based, among other things, 14 on the defendants' failure to preserve and gather evidence that 15 might have exonerated the plaintiff in his criminal case. Id. The 16 Inspectors argue that Cunningham addressed a Brady claim, pointing 17 to the court's cursory summary in the beginning of the opinion that 18 the complaint alleged that the defendants concealed exculpatory 19 evidence. See id. at 806. However, in its analysis of this claim, 20 the court described it as the defendants' failure to preserve and 21 gather potentially exculpatory evidence by failing to document 22 interrogations, failing to keep a record of witnesses' statements 23 and failing to gather physical evidence. Id. at 812. The court 24 then analyzed the claim under Arizona v. Youngblood, not Brady. Id.

25 The Supreme Court in Arizona v. Youngblood, 488 U.S. 51 (1988), 26 distinguished the claim before it, that the government lost evidence 27 that could have been exculpatory, from a Brady claim, concluding

1 that a Youngblood claim, unlike a Brady claim, requires a showing of 2 bad faith. Youngblood, 488 U.S. at 57. The Supreme Court
3 explained:

4 The Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, as 5 interpreted in Brady, makes the good or bad faith of the 6 State irrelevant when the State fails to disclose to the 7 defendant material exculpatory evidence. But we think the 8 Due Process Clause requires a different result when we 9 deal with the failure of the State to preserve evidentiary 10 material of which no more can be said than it could have 11 been subjected to tests, the results of which might have 12 exonerated the defendant.

13 Id.

14 Therefore, Cunningham does not support the Inspectors' 15 contention that the Ninth Circuit requires bad faith to establish a 16 § 1983 claim based on a Brady violation.

17 The Inspectors also rely on Daniels v. Williams, 474 U.S. 327
18 (1986), which held that "the Due Process Clause is simply not 19 implicated by a negligent act of an official causing unintended loss 20 of or injury to life, liberty, or property." Id. at 328 (emphasis 21 in original). However, Daniels did not require bad faith for a due 22 process violation, it simply required more than negligence.

23 Circuit courts are divided on the question of whether a 24 plaintiff must show bad faith to establish a civil rights claim 25 based on a Brady violation. Compare McMillian v. Johnson, 88 F.3d 26 1554, 1567 (11th Cir. 1996) (in a § 1983 action, holding that 27 investigators have a duty to disclose under Brady, irrespective of 28 good or bad faith) with Jean v. Collins, 221 F.3d 656, 660 (4th Cir.
2000) (en banc) (in a § 1983 action, affirming, by an equally divided court, district court dismissal of complaint on ground that it merely alleged negligent conduct on the part of defendants and

1 that bad faith was required to hold police officers liable for due
2 process violations); and Villasana v. Wilhoit, 368 F.3d 976, 980
3 (8th Cir. 2004) (in a § 1983 action, holding that bad faith required 4 in Brady claims against law enforcement officials other than 5 prosecutor).

6 Because neither the Supreme Court nor the Ninth Circuit has 7 addressed this issue, this Court must decide whether police 8 investigators are civilly liable for Brady violations only if they 9 act in bad faith.

10 Based upon the fact that Brady makes the non-disclosure of 11 exculpatory evidence a violation of the Due Process Clause 12 irrespective of the good or bad faith of the non-disclosing officer, 13 this Court concludes that bad faith is not required to establish a 14 civil Brady violation. Based upon Daniels, 474 U.S. at 331, which 15 held that a due process violation requires only a deliberate 16 decision on the part of a government official to deprive a person of 17 life, liberty or property, the Court concludes that, to prove a § 18 1983 claim based on Brady against the Inspectors, Plaintiffs must 19 establish only that they deliberately withheld exculpatory evidence 20 from Butterworth.

21 B. Suppression of Ricard Confession

22 There is no dispute that the November 7, 1990 Ricard confession
23 was exculpatory. The Inspectors argue that Plaintiffs' Brady claim 24 based on the Ricard confession fails because the Inspectors lacked 25 the requisite intent to deprive Plaintiffs of a constitutional 26 right, because Plaintiffs knew of Ricard's involvement and because 27 the confession was not material in that it was inadmissible.

1 Inspectors took any affirmative acts to conceal the confession.

2 2. Plaintiffs' Knowledge of Ricard's Involvement

3 Citing United States v. Dupuy, 760 F.2d 1492, 1502 n.5 (9th
4 Cir. 1985) and United States v. Aichele, 941 F.2d 761, 764 (9th Cir.
5 1991), the Inspectors argue that Plaintiffs' knowledge of Ricard's 6 alleged involvement in the Shannon murder precludes their Brady-7 based § 1983 claim.

8 "Where defendants had within their knowledge the information by 9 which they could have ascertained the supposed Brady material, there 10 is no suppression by the government." Dupuy, 760 F.2d at 1502 n.5; 11 Aichele, 941 F.2d at 764 (same). If the government provides to the 12 defense the means of obtaining the exculpatory evidence, there is no 13 Brady violation. Dupuy, 760 F.2d at 1502, n.5. A defendant cannot 14 claim a Brady violation if his counsel was "aware of the essential 15 facts enabling him to take advantage of any exculpatory evidence."
16 United States v. Shaffer, 789 F.2d 682, 690 (9th Cir. 1986); see, 17 e.g., United States v. Bracy, 67 F.3d 1421, 1428-29 (9th Cir. 1995) 18 (where government discloses all information necessary for defense to 19 discover alleged Brady material on its own, government is not guilty 20 of suppressing evidence). "Any allegation of suppression boils down 21 to an assessment of what the State knows at trial in comparison to 22 the knowledge held by the defense." Dupuy, 760 F.2d at 1502, n.5
23 (quoting Giles v. Maryland, 386 U.S. 66, 96 (1967) (White, J., 24 concurring)).

25 However, the availability of particular information through the 26 defendant himself does not negate the government's duty to disclose.
27 United States v. Howell, 231 F.3d 615, 625 (9th Cir. 2000).

1 "Defendants often mistrust their counsel, and even defendants who 2 cooperate with counsel cannot always remember all of the relevant 3 facts or realize the legal importance of certain occurrences." Id.
4 Therefore, defense counsel is entitled to plan trial strategy on the 5 basis of full disclosure by the government, regardless of the 6 defendant's knowledge or memory of the disclosed information. Id.

7 The Inspectors point to statements made by Tennison at the 8 hearing on his motion for new trial and statements made by Goff at 9 the § 4900 hearing showing that Plaintiffs knew of Ricard's 10 involvement in the murder before the Inspectors did.

11 Tennison's testimony at the hearing on his motion for new trial 12 indicates that, at least five months before the hearing, he had 13 heard of Ricard's involvement with the Shannon murder and shortly 14 thereafter heard that Ricard had made a taped confession to the 15 police. Tennison testified that he told Adachi that he knew Ricard 16 had committed the crime, but it is not clear that he told Adachi 17 that he had heard that Ricard had confessed to the police on tape.
18 Goff's testimony at the § 4900 hearing indicates that he had heard 19 Ricard brag about shooting Shannon and had told Melton this very 20 soon after he had been charged with the murder. There is no 21 evidence that Goff or Melton knew that Ricard had given a taped 22 confession to the police.

23 Thus, the evidence shows that Plaintiffs and their attorneys
24 suspected that Ricard was the shooter, before the trial in Goff's 25 case and before the new trial proceeding in Tennison's case.
26 However, it is not clear whether the attorneys knew of Ricard's 27 taped confession to the police. The evidentiary value of Ricard's 28

1 taped confession to the police, after being Mirandized, surpasses
2 any evidence that Plaintiffs could have given about their knowledge 3 of Ricard's involvement.

4 Disputed issues of material facts prevent summary adjudication
5 for either side on the issue of whether the extent of Plaintiffs' 6 attorneys' knowledge of Ricard's involvement excused the prosecution 7 from disclosing the tape.

8 3. Admissibility of the Ricard Confession

9 The Inspectors move for summary adjudication that, even if they 10 intentionally failed to inform Butterworth of Ricard's confession, 11 the confession was not material because it was inadmissible hearsay.

12 To support a claim under Brady, the withheld information must 13 be material. Brady, 373 U.S. at 87. To be material, the withheld 14 information, or evidence acquired through it, must be admissible.
15 United States v. Kennedy, 890 F.2d 1056, 1059-60 (9th Cir. 1989).

16 The Inspectors point out that the confession was not admitted 17 at the hearing on Tennison's motion for new trial because the 18 confession was hearsay and Tennison's attorney did not establish 19 that Ricard was unavailable to testify, as required for the 20 declaration-against-interest exception to the hearsay rule. The 21 Inspectors further argue that, even if Tennison's attorney had been 22 able to show Ricard was unavailable, the court of appeal found that 23 Ricard's confession was not sufficiently trustworthy to have 24 qualified as a declaration against interest.

25 Plaintiffs respond that the trial court and the court of appeal
26 found Ricard's confession to be inadmissible and untrustworthy 27 because the courts did not have a full factual record before them.

28

1 In favor of Plaintiffs' argument, at the time the trial court
2 and the court of appeal made their decisions that Ricard's
3 confession to the police was inadmissible and unreliable, Smith's 4 corroborating statements were not part of the record. In addition, 5 if the confession had been turned over to Plaintiffs in a timely 6 manner, Adachi's interview of an anonymous person would not have 7 been introduced into evidence to confuse matters. However, as noted 8 by the Inspectors, Ricard's confession suffered from internal 9 inconsistencies and, therefore, the courts might have found it 10 inadmissible even with Smith's statements and without the anonymous 11 confession.

12 The Court finds that disputed issues of material fact preclude 13 a determination of whether the State courts would have found 14 Ricard's confession admissible if all relevant facts had been timely 15 disclosed. Therefore, the cross-motions for summary adjudication of 16 the issue of admissibility of the confession are DENIED.

17 In summary, based upon disputed issues of material facts as 18 discussed above, the cross-motions for summary adjudication of 19 whether the Inspectors violated Plaintiffs' due process rights under 20 Brady are DENIED.

21 The Inspectors argue that even if they committed a 22 constitutional violation, they are absolutely or qualifiedly immune
23 from liability.

24 4. Absolute Immunity

25 Peace officers and other investigators are protected by 26 absolute immunity when performing prosecutorial or quasi-judicial 27 functions, typically by assisting the prosecutor to prepare the case

1 after probable cause for arrest has been established. KRL v. Moore, 2 384 F.3d 1104, 1113 (9th Cir. 2003). As noted above, the absolute 3 immunity inquiry is focused on the nature of the function performed, 4 not the identity of the actor who performed it. Forrester v. White, 5 484 U.S. 219, 229 (1988).

6 The Inspectors argue that they were not acting in an 7 investigative capacity in November, 1990, when Ricard confessed, 8 because the investigation had long ended, the Inspectors' only role 9 at that time was to assist Butterworth in his duties as a 10 prosecutor, and Plaintiffs had already been convicted. However, 11 these facts do not end the inquiry. As stated in Gensler, 410 F.3d 12 at 639, timing is relevant, but is not dispositive of the 13 classification of the defendant's activity.

14 At his deposition, Sanders testified that he received the 15 Ricard confession within a day or two after it was made, immediately 16 began investigating it and informed Butterworth of the 17 investigation.⁸ At his deposition, Hendrix testified that he 18 learned of the Ricard confession from Sanders, that they immediately 19 took steps to locate Ricard, and that he never informed Butterworth 20 of the confession.⁹ Butterworth testified that he never learned 21 about the Ricard confession from the Inspectors; instead he was 22 informed about it by Lewis, whom he happened to meet accidentally in 23 the cafeteria, months after it had been given.

24
25 ⁸Sanders' inconsistent statement in his declaration that he 26 first learned of Ricard's confession from Butterworth has been stricken.

27 ⁹Hendrix' inconsistent statement in his declaration that he 28 did not investigate the confession has been stricken.

1 Thus, their own testimony leads to the conclusion that the 2 Inspectors were acting in an investigative capacity after they 3 learned of the Ricard confession, not in a quasi-judicial or 4 prosecutorial capacity. Accordingly, absolute immunity does not 5 shield the Inspectors from Brady liability for withholding the 6 Ricard confession. The Inspectors' motion for summary judgment on 7 this ground is DENIED.

8 (2) Qualified Immunity

9 (a) Clearly Established Law

10 At the time the Inspectors learned of Ricard's November, 1990
11 confession to the police, the law regarding the constitutional duty 12 of law enforcement officials to turn over exculpatory evidence was 13 clearly established. The seminal Supreme Court cases establishing 14 this duty were decided in 1963 and 1976. See Brady v. Maryland, 373
15 U.S. at 87; Agurs, 427 U.S. at 107.

16 Citing Broam v. Boqan, 320 F.3d 1023, 1032 (9th Cir. 2003), the 17 Inspectors argue that there was no clearly established law that a 18 police officer has a legal duty to investigate and provide post-19 conviction, second-hand information to the prosecution or the 20 defense.

21 In Broam, the court stated that once probable cause to arrest
22 has been established, a law enforcement officer has no 23 constitutional duty to investigate independently every claim of 24 innocence, whether the claim is based on mistaken identity or lack 25 of the requisite intent. Id. However, the court did not hold, as 26 the Inspectors argue, that a law enforcement officer has no
27 constitutional duty to turn over to the prosecution material

1 exculpatory evidence in his possession. In fact, Broam indicated 2 the opposite, that "an officer is not entitled to a qualified 3 immunity defense, however, where exculpatory evidence is ignored
4 that would negate a finding of probable cause." Id. The Ninth 5 Circuit has also stated:

6 There is no ambiguity in our law. The obligation under 7 Brady and Giglio is the obligation of the government, not 8 merely the obligation of the prosecutor. . . .
9 'Exculpatory evidence cannot be kept out of the hands of 10 the defense just because the prosecutor does not have it, 11 where an investigating agency does.'

12 Blanco, 392 F.3d at 393-94 (internal citations omitted).

13 Relying on Villasana, 368 F.3d at 979 (citing Imbler v.
14 Pachtman, 424 U.S. 409, 427 (1976)), the Inspectors next argue that, 15 because only the prosecutor has a duty to disclose evidence to the 16 defense, Plaintiffs cannot seek § 1983 damages for an alleged Brady 17 violation from non-prosecutors who do not have absolute 18 prosecutorial immunity.

19 The Inspectors mischaracterize the holding of Villasana.
20 Villasana did not hold that investigators cannot be civilly liable 21 for a Brady violation; it addressed the standard that should apply 22 to such claims. Id. at 980. Courts have held investigators liable 23 for failing to disclose material exculpatory evidence to the 24 prosecutor. See McMillian v. Johnson, 88 F.3d 1554, 1567 (11th Cir.
25 1996) (although investigators have no Brady obligation to turn over 26 exculpatory evidence to the defense, they have a duty, under Brady, 27 to turn over such evidence to the prosecutor); Newsome v. McCabe, 28 256 F.3d 747, 752 (7th Cir. 2001) (under a qualified immunity analysis, concluding that it was clearly established in 1979 and

1 1980 that police could not withhold from prosecutors exculpatory
2 information); Jones v. City of Chicago, 856 F.2d 985, 993 (7th Cir.
3 1988) (in § 1983 case, upholding jury verdict against defendant
4 police officers on ground that jury could have found defendants 5 concealed from prosecutors facts material to decision whether to 6 prosecute plaintiff).

7 Thus, clearly established law would inform a reasonable officer 8 that Ricard's confession should have been turned over to the 9 prosecutor, who in turn would be responsible for providing it to 10 defense counsel.

11 (b) Reasonable Conduct

12 Again relying on Villasana, 368 F.3d at 978, the Inspectors 13 argue that they are entitled to qualified immunity because they 14 reasonably believed that Butterworth was responsible for providing 15 any exculpatory evidence to defense counsel, and they were not. As 16 discussed above, this argument is a mischaracterization of well-17 established law regarding the duty of law enforcement officials to 18 turn over all exculpatory evidence to the prosecutor; the Inspectors 19 fail to explain how Butterworth could have disclosed Ricard's 20 confession to Plaintiffs if the Inspectors never told him about it.

21 The Inspectors argue that because they never had possession of 22 the tape of the Ricard confession, they could not have suppressed 23 it. Furthermore, they argue that "a reasonable officer could have 24 believed that Lewis, the SFPD officer who actually took Ricard's 25 confession, would have advised Butterworth of the confession."

26 The Inspectors cannot avoid responsibility for their obligation 27 by assuming that a subordinate fulfilled it. At his deposition, 28

1 Hendrix testified that he and Sanders were responsible for turning 2 over evidence connected to the Shannon homicide to the district 3 attorney because it was their case and that it was Lewis and 4 Gittens' responsibility to get the tape of the Ricard confession
5 either to the district attorney or to Sanders or himself. Lewis
6 testified that he did get the tape to the Inspectors. He testified 7 that, immediately after he took Ricard's confession, he informed the 8 Inspectors of it by putting a copy of the taped confession in a 9 place where the Inspectors would receive it, and that he spoke to 10 Hendrix about the confession the next day. Sanders testified that 11 he received the tape of Ricard's confession within a day or two of 12 November 7, 1990, the date it was made.

13 Viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to Plaintiffs, 14 it was the Inspectors' responsibility to inform Butterworth of the 15 confession, and they did not have reason to believe that Lewis or 16 Gittens did so. Therefore, these facts do not demonstrate the 17 Inspectors acted reasonably under the circumstances.

18 Next, the Inspectors argue that they are protected by qualified 19 immunity because Butterworth learned of the confession and provided 20 it to Plaintiffs' defense attorneys in sufficient time for it to be 21 considered by the trial and appellate courts and the failure to 22 inform Butterworth of the confession earlier did not violate clearly 23 established law of which a reasonable officer would have been aware.

24 Due process requires the disclosure of exculpatory material in 25 sufficient time to permit the defendant to make effective use of the 26 material. LaMere v. Risley, 827 F.2d 622, 625 (9th Cir. 1987). In 27 determining whether the timing of the disclosure satisfied due 28

1 process, a court considers the prosecution's reasons for late
2 disclosure and whether the defendant had an opportunity to make use
3 of the disclosed material. Id.

4 In its August 26, 2003 Habeas Order, the Court explained why 5 the delay in turning over the Ricard confession was prejudicial to 6 Tennison. Purcell Dec., Ex. 52, August 26, 2003 Order at 100-102.
7 In the habeas proceeding, the respondent had not explained why the 8 Inspectors did not inform Butterworth of the confession. The only 9 explanation the Inspectors make here, that it was Lewis' 10 responsibility, is insufficient when viewing the facts in the light 11 most favorable to Plaintiffs. Although the Court's ruling in the 12 habeas case has no preclusive effect on the issues in this case, 13 because the facts are the same, the Court adopts the reasoning in 14 the August 26, 2003 Habeas Order regarding prejudice to Tennison due 15 to the delay in receiving Ricard's confession. Furthermore, Goff 16 was similarly prejudiced by the delay in his receipt of the 17 confession, because he could have immediately used it as the basis 18 of his State appeals and habeas petitions.¹⁰ As discussed 19 previously, although the State courts found the confession to be 20 unreliable, they did so without the benefit of all of the withheld 21 Brady material and they compared it to the anonymous Ricard 22 confession obtained by Adachi that would not have been submitted if

23

24 ¹⁰As discussed previously in relation to Butterworth's motion
25 for summary judgment, Butterworth did not turn over the Ricard 26 confession to Goff. However, Butterworth's actions are not 27 relevant to whether the Inspectors are protected by qualified immunity. Therefore, for this discussion, it is assumed that the Inspectors would have fulfilled their responsibilities if they had turned the tape over to Butterworth.

28

1 the taped Ricard confession to the police had been timely turned 2 over to both Plaintiffs.

3 Therefore, the fact that eventually Butterworth learned of the 4 confession from Lewis and then informed Tennison of it does not 5 excuse the Inspectors from their duty to turn the tape over in 6 sufficient time for Plaintiffs to make use of it. These facts fail 7 to demonstrate that the Inspectors acted reasonably under the 8 circumstances.

9 Accordingly, the Court DENIES the cross-motions for summary 10 adjudication of this claim and DENIES the Inspectors' motion for 11 summary judgment of absolute or qualified immunity.

12 B. Suppression of Smith's Statement

13 The Inspectors argue that Plaintiffs' Brady claim based on 14 Smith's information fails because the information is not 15 exculpatory, the Inspectors lacked the requisite intent to deprive 16 Plaintiffs of a constitutional right and Plaintiffs' knowledge of 17 Smith's involvement means the Inspectors did not suppress the 18 confession.

19 (1) Exculpatory Information

20 The Inspectors argue that Smith's information is not 21 exculpatory on the ground that, before 1992, Smith did not tell the 22 police that she had witnessed Shannon's murder. They argue that her 23 January 3, 1990 phone call to Sanders was mysterious because she 24 only identified herself as "Chante" and provided only a contact 25 phone number. They point out that they interviewed the five 26 individuals who she had heard were present at the murder and learned 27 nothing about the murder. The Inspectors, pointing to Sanders' note 28

1 as evidence, also argue that Smith did not say that Tennison and 2 Goff were not at the murder scene.

3 In her 1995 declaration, Smith states that she told Sanders in 4 1990 that he had arrested the wrong people for the Shannon murder
5 because she had heard that Ricard had shot Shannon and that Tennison
6 and Goff were not present at any point during the homicide. Smith 7 Reply Dec. at ¶ 8. The fact that Sanders did not write this 8 information in his note does not prove that Smith did not provide 9 it.

10 Furthermore, the Inspectors' characterization of Smith's call 11 as mysterious is inconsistent with the evidence that the Inspectors 12 knew Smith and her friends before the Shannon murder. For instance, 13 at Smith's 1992 interview, Sanders asked her how long she had known 14 himself and Hendrix, and Smith replied that she had known them for a 15 couple of years, from before the Shannon murder. Purcell Dec., Ex.
16 47, 1992 Smith Interview at 76. Sanders stated, "We know all of 17 your, a lot of your buddies, and people who hang out with you on the 18 street, is that correct?" Id. Smith replied, "Yes." Id. At his 19 2001 deposition, Sanders testified that he and Hendrix knew Smith, 20 just as they knew many of the young people in her neighborhood, and 21 that they had questioned her about a number of the gang-related 22 murders that had occurred in her neighborhood. Balogh Reply Dec., 23 Ex. 63, 2001 Sanders Depo. at 143-44.

24 Further, the Inspectors' follow-up interview of Luther Blue 25 after Smith disclosed his name to Sanders indicates that she told 26 Sanders that the car chase started at the Seven-Eleven. This was 27 exculpatory because it cast doubt on Masina's testimony that the car 28

1 chase started at Lovers' Lane. Finally, if Smith's information had 2 been disclosed, she could have testified at Tennison's motion for 3 new trial, and important parts of Ricard's confession would have 4 been corroborated, which would have been a significant factor in the 5 trial judge's analysis of whether Ricard's confession was 6 trustworthy. It is reasonable to infer that, after Ricard 7 confessed, Smith would have no reason to fear retaliation from 8 Ricard or Blue if she testified that she had been an eyewitness to 9 Shannon's shooting.

10 Therefore, the information Smith relayed to Sanders in 1990 was 11 exculpatory.

12 (2) Intent

13 The Inspectors argue that Sanders' January 3, 1990 note about 14 the Smith interview was in Butterworth's file and this negates any 15 inference that Sanders intended to bury information connected to 16 Smith.¹¹ Also, according to the Inspectors, the fact that they 17 interviewed the five individuals Smith named and put notes of those 18 interviews in the file demonstrates that they had no intention to 19 withhold any of Smith's information. Lastly, to support their claim 20 that Sanders' note was sufficient to fulfill his Brady obligation, 21 the Inspectors point to Adachi's and Melton's testimony that, had 22 they seen Sanders' note, they would have been alerted to Smith and 23 her information.

24

25 ¹¹The Inspectors actually argue that the facts show that 26 Sanders did not act in bad faith. As discussed above, Plaintiffs 27 must show that the Inspectors deliberately intended to withhold 28 Brady material; it is not necessary to show they acted in bad faith.

1 Plaintiffs respond that they never saw Sanders' note and, even 2 if they had, it was insufficient to alert anyone to Smith's identity 3 or the substance of her statements because it omitted Smith's last 4 name, and her statements that Ricard had committed the murder, that 5 Plaintiffs were not at the murder scene, and that the car chase
6 started at the Seven-Eleven store. As evidence that Sanders' note
7 was insufficient under Brady, Plaintiffs cite Butterworth's 8 testimony that he could not ascertain its significance. Plaintiffs 9 also argue that Sanders' intent to suppress Smith's information is 10 demonstrated by the fact that he made no notes of his further 11 contacts with Smith which would have alerted Plaintiffs to the 12 significance of her information, nor are there notes that members of 13 the GTF interviewed Smith regarding her knowledge of the truck that 14 was thought to be involved in the car chase.

15 Because Butterworth testified that Sanders' note was in his 16 file and therefore it would have been turned over to Plaintiffs' 17 attorneys, but Plaintiffs' attorneys testified that they did not 18 receive the note, there is a dispute about whether Sanders included 19 the note in the file he gave Butterworth. And, even if Sanders gave 20 the note to Butterworth, it was cryptic and failed to disclose 21 significant details. The fact that Adachi and Melton thought the 22 note was important does not mean the note was sufficient as written.
23 The Inspectors' insistence that they did not know Smith or the 24 people she mentioned is belied by other testimony where the 25 Inspectors admit they knew Smith before the Shannon murder, knew the 26 people with whom she associated and knew that she said that the car 27 chase started at the Seven-Eleven store instead of Lovers' Lane.

1 The Inspectors do not address Plaintiffs' argument that Sanders made 2 no notes of his further contacts with Smith or of the interviews of 3 Smith by members of the GTF. Therefore, Sanders' note did not 4 fulfill his Brady obligations. However, a fact-finder could infer 5 that Sanders thought the note was sufficient. As noted above, 6 questions involving state of mind are generally inappropriate for 7 summary judgment. Therefore, there are disputed issues of material 8 fact regarding intent and the cross-motions for summary adjudication 9 of this issue are DENIED.

10 (3) Plaintiffs' Knowledge of Smith

11 The Inspectors argue that they are not liable for a Brady-based 12 § 1983 violation because Plaintiffs independently knew of Smith and 13 that she might have information about the Shannon murder, and thus 14 Plaintiffs' attorneys could have discovered the alleged Brady 15 material on their own.

16 (a) Tennison's Knowledge of Smith

17 Citing Smith's 1992 police interview, the Inspectors claim that 18 Tennison knew Smith because she talked to him before his trial and 19 he asked her to be a witness for him at his trial. The Inspectors 20 argue that Tennison or Adachi could have found Smith and learned of 21 her information before trial. This argument is unpersuasive. At 22 her 1992 interview, Smith stated that she barely knew Tennison and 23 that she only spoke with him coincidentally when she worked as an 24 operator and Tennison placed a telephone call from jail. Although 25 Tennison asked her to speak to his attorney about the Shannon 26 homicide, she declined because she feared that she would be killed 27 by Ricard or Blue if she did so. She explained that, because she

28

1 feared for her life, she asked her family not to give her telephone 2 number or address to Plaintiffs and that she moved from her former 3 address to ensure that her whereabouts would be secret. Smith's 4 statements are corroborated by the testimony at the hearing on 5 Tennison's motion for new trial. At the time of the hearing, the 6 only information known to Tennison was that a person named Chaunteney
7 White may have witnessed the Shannon murder; even though Tennison's 8 brother searched for her, he was unable to locate her.

9 This evidence establishes that Tennison had some vague 10 information about Smith, that he diligently searched for her, but 11 that the search was unsuccessful. On the basis of this evidence, 12 the Court cannot find that Tennison's attorney had the knowledge and 13 means to obtain Smith's information on his own.

14 (b) Goff's Knowledge of Smith

15 The Inspectors cite Goff's deposition and his testimony at the 16 § 4900 hearing to show that he had a close romantic relationship 17 with Smith before the Shannon murder, that after the murder he heard 18 she might have been involved and that he told Melton this. The 19 evidence shows that Goff was not romantically involved with Smith; 20 they just knew each other from the neighborhood, they had gone to 21 the movies together once or twice, but Smith did not even know 22 Goff's last name. A few weeks after the murder but before he was 23 arrested, Goff heard Ricard mention Smith's name in connection with 24 the murder. Goff asked Smith about her involvement, but when she 25 denied knowing anything, he did not pursue the subject. Goff had 26 also heard that the car chase started at the Seven-Eleven. After he 27 was arrested, Goff gave his attorney this information. After the 28

1 trial, Goff coincidentally had a brief conversation with Smith in 2 her role as operator when he was placing a call from jail. Goff
3 asked Smith to talk to his attorney and Smith refused.

4 Unlike Tennison, Goff had heard immediately after he was 5 arrested about Smith's connection to the murder and that the car 6 chase started at the Seven-Eleven and he informed his attorney of 7 this. On the basis of this evidence, the Court finds that there are 8 disputes of material fact regarding whether Goff's attorney had 9 sufficient information to have found Smith and her exculpatory 10 information on his own.

11 In summary, based upon disputed issues of material facts, the 12 cross motions for summary adjudication on liability are DENIED.

13 (4) Absolute Immunity

14 Although the Inspectors make a blanket argument that they are 15 absolutely immune from all of Plaintiffs' claims, they do not 16 specifically argue that absolute immunity applies to Plaintiffs' 17 Brady claim regarding Smith and the information she provided.
18 Therefore, absolute immunity is DENIED in regard to this claim.

19 (5) Qualified Immunity

20 The Inspectors argue that, even if they committed a 21 constitutional violation, they are qualifiedly immune from 22 liability. As discussed above, the law regarding the duty of police 23 to turn over exculpatory evidence to the prosecutor was clearly 24 established at the time these events occurred. Thus, the Court 25 addresses whether the Inspectors' conduct was reasonable under the 26 clearly established law.

27 As discussed above, the Court has found that the information 28

1 Smith told the Inspectors was exculpatory and that Sanders'
2 handwritten note of his first interview with Smith was insufficient
3 to fulfill his Brady obligation. For all the reasons stated above, 4 the Inspectors' failure to alert Butterworth to this information so 5 that he, in turn, could have informed Plaintiffs of it, cannot be 6 summarily adjudicated to be objectively reasonable under clearly 7 established law. Therefore, the Inspectors' motion for summary
8 adjudication of qualified immunity is DENIED.

9 C. Request for Money From Secret Witness Program

10 (1) Exculpatory Evidence

11 The Inspectors argue that there is no constitutional violation 12 for failing to disclose the SWP memo to Butterworth because the 13 information is not exculpatory in that no one received any reward 14 money. Plaintiffs argue that the memo is exculpatory because it had 15 impeachment and investigative value. They argue that the 16 exculpatory nature of the memo is reinforced by the April 23, 1990
17 conversation between Hendrix and Masina, which shows that Hendrix 18 discussed a reward with Masina, and by the two entries from the 19 ledger of Contingent Fund B indicating payments to Sanders and 20 Hendrix in the total amount of approximately $1,400.

21 Although Masina declares that she was not offered a reward and 22 did not receive one, the enhanced tape of the April 23, 1990
23 conversation between Hendrix and Masina is evidence that Hendrix may 24 have discussed a reward with Masina. As acknowledged by Hendrix, a 25 reward taints a witness' testimony at trial. Purcell Dec., Ex. 15, 26 Hendrix Depo. at 124. The audio experts' disagreement about whether 27 the word "reward" is mentioned by Hendrix raises a factual issue for 28

1 a jury to decide.

2 Also, the Inspectors do not explain the whereabouts of the 3 original audio tape nor how copies of the audio tape came to be in 4 such poor condition.

5 Spoliation of evidence, defined as "the destruction or 6 significant alteration of evidence, or the failure to preserve 7 property for another's use as evidence in pending or reasonably 8 foreseeable litigation," supports an inference that the evidence was 9 unfavorable to the party responsible for its destruction. Byrni v.
10 Town of Cromwell, Bd. of Educ., 243 F.3d 93, 107 (2nd Cir. 2001).
11 An inference of spoliation, in combination with some evidence for 12 the plaintiff, can allow the plaintiff to survive summary judgment.
13 Medical Lab Mgmt. Consultants v. American Broadcasting Cos., Inc., 14 306 F.3d 806, 825 (9th Cir. 2002).

15 Here, the fact that the audio tape was not disclosed, and the 16 original was not preserved, for use as evidence in Plaintiffs' 17 criminal case or their future habeas petitions, which were 18 reasonably foreseeable to the Inspectors, raises an inference that 19 the conversation on the audio tape was unfavorable to the Inspectors 20 and the criminal case against Plaintiffs. This, in conjunction with 21 the evidence of the SWP memo, contributes to the inference that, at 22 the very least, a reward was discussed with Masina.¹² Thus, the SWP

23 24 ¹²The withdrawals from Contingent Fund B might contribute to 25 this finding. On the other hand, a fact-finder could credit 26 Goldberg's testimony that the money was used for witness travel.
27 The ledger entry of the $1,250 payment indicates it was for witness 28 expenses and the payment was made in early October, 1999 when Masina traveled from Samoa to the United States to provide an in-person taped statement of her account of Shannon's homicide. See Masina Dec. and Wong Dec., Ex. LL, Tennison's Preliminary Hearing

1 memo could be found to be exculpatory. The Inspectors' argument
2 that the SWP memo is inadmissible hearsay is unpersuasive; armed 3 with the memo, Plaintiffs' trial counsel could have asked the 4 Inspectors about it at trial and used it to impeach them if they 5 denied making the request from the SWP.

6 The Court concludes that there are disputed issues of fact 7 regarding whether the SWP memo was exculpatory.

8 (2) Intent

9 The Inspectors argue that they did not intend to withhold the 10 SWP memo, as evidenced by the fact that they placed it in the police 11 case file where Butterworth could access it and turn it over to 12 Plaintiffs.

13 Officer Tabak, San Francisco's Rule 30(b)(6) witness on police 14 procedures, testified that it is standard procedure for the police 15 to turn over everything to the district attorney's office. The 16 district attorney discloses everything to the defense. Balogh Dec., 17 Ex. 81, Tabak Depo. at 48. Tabak also stated that it is not SFPD's 18 policy for the investigator who is aware of exculpatory evidence to 19 leave it in the police case file and assume that if the district 20 attorney is interested, he would come to the SFPD where the file is 21 located and look at it. Id. at 99. Instead, Tabak stated, the 22 investigator should make an effort within a reasonable amount of 23 time to reveal that exculpatory information to the district 24 attorney. Id.

25 Tabak's testimony is sufficient to raise a dispute of fact

26 _____ 27 at 54 (Shortly after the Shannon homicide, Masina left the United 28 States to live in Samoa).

1 regarding whether the Inspectors negligently or intentionally 2 withheld the memo by placing it in the police case file instead of 3 turning it over to Butterworth.

4 Because there are disputes of material fact regarding whether 5 the SWP memo was exculpatory and whether the Inspectors intended to 6 withhold it, the cross motions for summary judgment on the issue of 7 liability are DENIED.

8 (3) Qualified Immunity¹³

9 The Inspectors argue that even if they committed a 10 constitutional violation, qualified immunity protects them from 11 liability.

12 As discussed above, at the time this conduct took place the law
13 regarding the Inspectors' duty to turn over to the prosecutor 14 exculpatory information was well-established. If the SWP memo was 15 exculpatory, a reasonable officer would know that it was necessary 16 to turn it over directly to the district attorney. Therefore, 17 disputed facts regarding the memo's exculpatory value preclude 18 summary judgment on whether the Inspectors' conduct was reasonable 19 under the circumstances. The Inspectors' motion for summary
20 judgment of qualified immunity for failure to disclose the SWP memo 21 is DENIED.

22 D. Luther Blue's Interviews and Pauline's Polygraph

23 Only the Inspectors move for summary judgment on these claims.
24 They argue that they fulfilled their Brady obligations by providing 25 the video tapes of each of their two interviews with Luther Blue to

26 27 ¹³The Inspectors do not argue that absolute immunity applies to 28 this claim.

1 Butterworth, that Butterworth himself ordered Pauline's polygraph 2 and that they informed him of the results. Tennison concedes that 3 the Inspectors' conduct in regard to the Blue interviews and 4 Pauline's polygraph are not independent grounds for liability under 5 Brady. Tennison Opp. at 57. Goff does not address the Blue
6 interview. Goff argues that the polygraph was material exculpatory 7 evidence, but doesn't address how the Inspectors could be liable for 8 failure to disclose it to Butterworth given that Butterworth knew of 9 it. Therefore, the Court GRANTS the Inspectors' motion for summary 10 judgment on Plaintiffs' Brady claims to the extent they are based on 11 suppression of the Blue interviews and Pauline's polygraph.

12 E. Materiality

13 Plaintiffs argue that they are entitled to summary judgment on 14 the element of materiality on all of their Brady claims.

15 As discussed above, in the context of a Brady violation, 16 evidence is material "if there is a reasonable probability that, had 17 the evidence been disclosed to the defense, the result of the 18 proceeding would have been different." Bagley, 473 U.S. at 682.

19 In the Habeas Order, the Court undertook an extensive review of 20 the case the prosecution presented against Tennison to the jury and 21 concluded that it was weak. Habeas Order at 72-80. The Inspectors 22 do not present additional evidence on this issue nor do they argue 23 that the prosecution's case was strong. Therefore, the Court adopts 24 here the finding that the prosecution's case against Tennison was 25 weak. The Court also finds the prosecution's case against Goff was 26 weak because there was only one eyewitness who identified Goff, 27 instead of two eyewitnesses who identified Tennison.

1 (same). Whether the conduct of another person is an intervening 2 cause of the plaintiff's injuries depends upon what was reasonably 3 foreseeable to the defendant at the time. White, 901 F.2d at 1505.
4 Foreseeable intervening causes will not supersede the defendant's 5 responsibility. Id.

6 The Inspectors offer many reasons for their argument that they 7 are not the legal or the proximate cause of Plaintiffs' injuries:
8 witnesses were untruthful during the investigation, Plaintiffs'
9 defense counsel failed to investigate and present an adequate 10 defense, the courts ruled adversely on the allegedly suppressed
11 Ricard confession and Plaintiffs failed to use their own knowledge 12 of the alleged facts to defend themselves.

13 Plaintiffs respond that the Habeas Order provides the best 14 template for analysis of causation. However, in the habeas case the 15 issue of causation was not addressed.

16 As discussed above in the context of liability, the Court has 17 found disputed issues of material facts in regard to many of the 18 same arguments the Inspectors raise here. The factual dispute is 19 compounded here because the Inspectors' ability to foresee any of 20 the alleged intervening events must be determined. Therefore, the 21 Court finds that disputed issues of material facts preclude summary 22 adjudication for either side of the issue of causation.

23 III. The Inspectors' Motion for Summary Judgment on Fabrication of 24 Evidence and Continued Investigation Claim

25 Only the Inspectors move for summary judgment on Plaintiffs' 26 claim that the Inspectors fabricated evidence in their interviews of 27 Masina and Pauline and continued their investigation of Plaintiffs

1 even though they knew or should have known that Plaintiffs were 2 innocent.

3 (A) Absolute Immunity

4 The Inspectors argue that Hendrix is absolutely immune from 5 Tennison's claim that he allegedly coerced Pauline into committing 6 perjury during the April, 1990 interviews.¹⁴

7 As discussed in relation to Butterworth's motion for summary
8 judgment, the Court has found that Butterworth acted as a prosecutor 9 and not as an investigator during the April 20 through April 22, 10 1990 interviews of Pauline about her recantation. At these 11 interviews, Hendrix was working primarily at Butterworth's 12 direction. However, Butterworth testified that he did not direct 13 Hendrix to arrange the telephone conversation between Pauline and 14 Masina after Pauline took the polygraph examination. Hendrix has 15 not pointed to any contrary evidence. Therefore, Hendrix was not 16 under Butterworth's direction when he arranged the phone call and 17 cannot claim that he was acting as a prosecutor in doing so. Thus, 18 Hendrix is absolutely immune from Plaintiffs' claim regarding his 19 actions during the April 20 through April 22, 1990 interviews of 20 Pauline, except for his conduct in setting up the phone call between 21 Masina and Pauline.

22 (B) Constitutional Violation

23 As discussed above, to prevail on a fabrication of evidence 24 claim, a plaintiff, at a minimum, must show that (1) the officer 25 continued his investigation despite the fact he knew or should have

26
27 ¹⁴Sanders was not present at the interviews and Pauline did not 28 testify about Goff.

1 known that the suspect was innocent or (2) the officer used 2 investigative techniques that were so coercive and abusive that he 3 knew or should have known that they would yield false information.
4 Devereaux, 263 F.3d at 1076. Suggestive interview tactics alone do
5 not amount to a constitutional violation. Gausvik, 345 F.3d at 817.

6 (1) Phone Call Between Pauline and Masina

7 Plaintiffs argue that it was coercive for Hendrix to allow 8 Pauline to participate in an unmonitored conversation with Masina, 9 the person Pauline said had pressured her to lie. As evidence, they 10 point to Hendrix' deposition testimony that good interview 11 techniques require witnesses to be interviewed separately and that 12 he himself never put witnesses in a room together allowing them to 13 talk over their respective testimony. Wong Dec., Ex. B, 2005
14 Hendrix Depo. at 37-40.

15 In his declaration, Hendrix states that, after the polygraph, 16 Pauline asked him if she could speak to Masina, who was then living 17 in Samoa. Hendrix states he arranged the call and didn't monitor it 18 because he "believed the girls were friends, and did not see 19 anything improper in allowing two witnesses who had already given 20 statements about the murder to speak." Hendrix Dec. at ¶ 23.
21 Butterworth testified that he was not concerned that Pauline spoke 22 with Masina over the telephone because Masina was in Samoa at the 23 time so it was unlikely that she would be able to pressure or coerce 24 Pauline. Wong Dec., Ex. O, Butterworth Depo. at 334-35.
25 Butterworth also stated that Hendrix had told him that Pauline had 26 asked to speak to Masina and Butterworth thought it was unlikely 27 that Pauline would make such a request if she felt threatened by 28

1 Masina. Id. at 335. Pauline stated that it was not her idea to 2 speak to Masina, that Hendrix just handed her the phone and said
3 that there was a phone call for her from Masina. Wong Dec., Ex. M, 4 Pauline Depo. at 98-99.

5 Thus, there is a dispute of fact regarding whether Pauline 6 asked to speak to Masina. However, even if Pauline had requested to 7 speak to Masina, it can be inferred that Hendrix knew or should have 8 known that this unmonitored phone call could yield false 9 information. Thus, a jury could find that Hendrix committed a 10 constitutional violation. However, Tennison has not carried his 11 burden of showing there is clearly established law regarding 12 allowing witnesses to talk to each other. Thus, even if a 13 constitutional violation was committed, a reasonable officer in 14 Hendrix' position would not have been aware that he was violating 15 Plaintiffs' constitutional rights. The Inspectors' motion for 16 summary adjudication that Hendrix is qualifiedly immune on this 17 claim is GRANTED.

18 (2) Continued Investigation

19 Opposing the Inspectors' motion for summary adjudication that 20 they did not commit a constitutional violation in this regard, 21 Plaintiffs argue that, because it was obvious that Masina and 22 Pauline were lying, the Inspectors knew it. No other credible 23 evidence tied Plaintiffs to Shannon's murder and thus, Plaintiffs 24 argue, the Inspectors continued their investigation of Plaintiffs 25 despite the fact that they knew that Plaintiffs were innocent.

26 The Inspectors argue that no evidence shows that they knew 27 Plaintiffs were innocent and point to a great deal of evidence that 28

1 shows that they reasonably believed, based on the statements of 2 Masina and Pauline, that Plaintiffs were guilty. The Inspectors 3 point out that there were sufficient reasons for them to believe 4 that Masina was credible because: (1) her account of the murder
5 never changed; (2) she had no motive to make up this story;
6 (3) neighborhood witnesses corroborated the chase route and vehicles 7 she described; (4) she admitted to having been in a stolen car, even 8 though she could have faced criminal liability; (5) other witnesses 9 corroborated aspects of her story; (6) the forensic evidence 10 established that Shannon received two shots from a shotgun, 11 consistent with what Masina described; (7) police found Shannon's 12 body in the corner of the parking lot as Masina had described it; 13 (8) Masina did not benefit from testifying against Plaintiffs; 14 (9) Masina put herself and her family at risk by testifying; and 15 (10) a neighborhood witness indicated that she saw a Filipina girl 16 matching Masina's description who did not look like she belonged 17 with the rest of the individuals who were near the scene of the 18 shooting. The Inspectors argue that there were sufficient reasons 19 for them to believe Pauline because: (1) during her first police 20 interview, she identified Tennison from a photo line-up; (2) at that 21 same interview, she identified an individual named Wayland Gibson, 22 whose street name was "Buck," as having been present at the murder 23 and Masina had said she heard someone say, "Buck, come here," just 24 before the car chase began; (3) Pauline's story that Masina forced 25 her to lie did not add up because shortly after the murder Pauline 26 moved to Hawaii and Masina moved to Samoa and it was not reasonable 27 to believe Masina could have exerted influence from thousands of 28

1 miles away; (4) Pauline's denial that she was in a stolen car before 2 the murder did not mar her credibility because she may have been 3 afraid this would get her into trouble; and (5) she may have 4 recanted her original story because she was afraid of retaliation.

5 As Plaintiffs point out, some of the reasons the Inspectors 6 give for believing Masina and Pauline are questionable. For 7 instance, as the Court noted in the October 26, 2003 Habeas Order, 8 the Inspectors' theory that neighborhood witnesses corroborated
9 Masina's story is weak given that some neighborhood witnesses 10 contradicted aspects of her statement and that Masina's and 11 Pauline's stories were inconsistent with each other. See Purcell 12 Dec., Ex. 52, August 26, 2003 Habeas Order at 72, 77-79.
13 Nonetheless, even if Pauline and Masina were lying, that is not 14 sufficient evidence that Plaintiffs were innocent to compel a 15 conclusion that the Inspectors continued their investigation of 16 Plaintiffs when they knew or should have known them to be innocent.

17 Plaintiffs have cited no case in which a claim like this one 18 prevailed. Although Devereaux, 263 F.3d at 1074-75, held that there 19 is a clearly established constitutional due process right not to be 20 criminally charged on the basis of false evidence deliberately 21 fabricated by the government, it found that the defendants had not 22 violated such a right. Id at 1077, 1079. The plaintiff in 23 Devereaux had based his constitutional claim on the first Devereaux 24 prong: coercive interview techniques. The Court has found only 25 three cases addressing the second Devereaux prong of continued 26 investigation, and all those cases have held the defendant did not 27 commit a constitutional violation. See Cunningham, 345 F.3d at 811-

1 12 (continued investigation not unconstitutional); Milstein, 208 F.
2 Supp. 2d at 1123-24 (defendants entitled to qualified immunity due 3 to insufficient evidence to support claim that they knew or should 4 have known plaintiff was innocent); Guerrero v. City and County of 5 San Francisco, 2003 WL 22749099, *10 (N.D. Cal 2003) (no reasonable 6 juror could find that defendant knew or should have known that 7 plaintiff was innocent).

8 Although the information the Inspectors uncovered in their 9 investigation was contradictory and somewhat inconsistent, no 10 evidence supports Plaintiffs' claim that the Inspectors knew or 11 reasonably should have known that Plaintiffs were innocent. In 12 Milstein, 208 F. Supp. 2d at 1123, the plaintiff had been indicted 13 by a Grand Jury and later held to answer after a preliminary 14 hearing. The court relied on these facts for its conclusion that 15 there was evidence to support the defendants' belief that the 16 plaintiff was guilty of the crimes charged. Id. Here, too, 17 Plaintiffs were held to answer after preliminary hearings on the 18 crimes charged. Significantly, at Goff's preliminary hearing, the 19 court found probable cause even though Pauline testified to her 20 recantation. Furthermore, although this Court granted Tennison's 21 habeas petition, it did so based on Brady violations; the Court did 22 not address the issue of Tennison's guilt or innocence.

23 The Court concludes that the Inspectors did not violate 24 Plaintiffs' constitutional right to be free from being charged with 25 fabricated evidence by continuing their investigation of Plaintiffs.
26 Furthermore, even if the Inspectors' conduct constituted a 27 violation, a reasonable officer in their position would not have

1 known that they were violating Plaintiffs' constitutional rights.
2 Therefore, the Inspectors' motion for summary adjudication based on 3 their continuing investigation of Plaintiffs is GRANTED.

4 F. Punitive Damages

5 The Inspectors move for summary adjudication of Plaintiffs' 6 demand for punitive damages.

7 Punitive damages may be awarded in a § 1983 suit "when the 8 defendant's conduct is shown to be motivated by evil motive or 9 intent, or when it involves reckless or callous indifference to the 10 federally protected rights of others." Smith v. Wade, 461 U.S. 30, 11 56 (1983). In Dang v. Cross, 422 F.3d 800, 807-08 (9th Cir. 2005), 12 the Ninth Circuit held that punitive damages may be awarded in 13 federal civil rights cases when the defendant's conduct is 14 oppressive or malicious or in reckless disregard of the plaintiff's 15 rights. Malicious conduct is accompanied by ill will or spite or is 16 done for the purpose of injuring the plaintiff. Id. at 809 (citing 17 Ninth Circuit Model Civil Jury Instruction 7.5). Reckless conduct 18 in conscious disregard of the plaintiff's rights reflects complete 19 indifference to the plaintiff's safety or rights or is done in the 20 face of a perceived risk that the conduct will violate the 21 plaintiff's rights under federal law. Id. (citing same jury 22 instruction). Conduct is oppressive if it injures or damages the 23 plaintiff or violates the plaintiff's rights with unnecessary 24 harshness or severity as by misuse or abuse of authority or power or 25 by taking advantage of the plaintiff's weakness, disability or 26 misfortune. Id. at 809-10. Although the standard for compensatory 27 and punitive damages is overlapping, the distinction is that 28

1 compensatory damages are mandatory once a violation is found, but 2 the award of punitive damages requires a discretionary moral 3 judgment that the conduct merited the particular punitive award 4 imposed in addition to the compensatory award. Larez v. City of Los 5 Angeles, 946 F.2d 630, 648-49 (9th Cir. 1991) (citing Smith, 461 6 U.S. at 52).

7 Relying on the same arguments discussed above, the Inspectors 8 contend that there is no evidence that they acted recklessly or 9 maliciously in regard to Plaintiffs' right to a fair trial.

10 Because the award of punitive damages turns on the intent of 11 the Inspectors, it, like other questions where motive is at issue, 12 cannot be resolved on summary judgment. If the jury were to find 13 for Plaintiffs on the disputed facts and draw inferences in 14 Plaintiffs' favor, such findings could support an award of punitive 15 damages. Plaintiffs have raised a disputed issue of fact regarding 16 whether the Inspectors acted oppressively, recklessly or with 17 callous disregard for Plaintiffs' constitutional rights. Therefore, 18 the Inspectors' motion for summary adjudication on the request for 19 punitive damages is DENIED.

20 CONCLUSION

21 Based on the foregoing, Plaintiffs' motion to strike (Docket 22 # 298) is GRANTED in part, Butterworth's motion for summary judgment 23 (Docket # 201) is GRANTED in part, the Inspectors' motion for 24 summary judgment (Docket # 215) is GRANTED in part, and Plaintiffs' 25 motions for partial summary adjudication (Docket ## 152, 155) are 26 DENIED. The Inspectors' request to file a separate statement of 27 disputed and undisputed facts is DENIED (Docket # 215). The only

1 remaining claim against Butterworth is Goff's Brady claim for 2 suppression of the Ricard confession. The claims remaining 3 against the Inspectors are Plaintiffs' Brady claims based on the 4 suppression of Ricard's confession, Smith's statements, the SWP memo
5 and Hendrix' April 23, 1990 phone call with Masina.

6

7 IT IS SO ORDERED.

8

9 Dated 2/2/06

CLAUDIA WILKEN
United States District Judge

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19 20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28